BRIEF PROTEST

Toll Hike Hits A Minor Snag

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Today's toll hike on the Golden Gate Bridge went off with a slight hitch when a small band of protesting commuters blocked three of the 11 southbound toll gates.

The blockade lasted less than a minute, and one of the three drivers was cited when she later refused to pay the additional quarter.

The protest was by the Golden Gate Association, which has been staging publicity stunts since May to protest the hike from 50 to 75 cents.

Spokesmen for the association also said they have petitioned the Cost of Living Council to investigate the toll increase. Their petition was signed by 658 persons.

(The bridge district's legal advisers have declared the council has no jurisdiction over tolls.)

More than a dozen newsmen were telephoned late yesterday by the association to tip them off to the stunt, which was set at 8 a.m. Bridge officials, catching wind of the plan, had the Sausalito police and highway patrol out watching for the blockade cars.

Finally, at 8:16, three cars came through the heavy traffic and blocked the gates closest to the district's administration building.

Security chief Dale Norton, however, had the gates clear in less than a minute. He simply warned the three drivers they would be pushed out of the toll plaza by one of the district's huge tow trucks if they did not move on voluntarily.

Ordering the three to the adjacent parking lot, district officials summoned the highway patrol to cite them for toll evasion. Two of the drivers, Logan Eisle of Sausalito and Bryan Ellis of San Anselmo, avoided citations by paying the full toll.

Only Adele Nolan of Strawberry, a court reporter and main spark behind the association, refused to pay the extra 25 cents. She also briefly refused to sign the citation issued by Officer John Campion, but relented when he told her that refusal meant she would be taken to jail.

The smiling Miss Nolan and slightly embarrassed officer Campion were surrounded by newsmen and television cameras during the incident. She topped it off by planting two kisses on Campion's cheeks.

The general manager of the district, Dale W. Luehring, said traffic moved a little slower than usual because of comments by drivers and because toll officers need time to get used to making different change. Extra supplies of quarters and dollar bills were supplied each officer.

One of the few complaints came minutes after the toll went up at midnight. A trucker who had stopped in Marin for a cup of coffee said the cup had cost him several dollars. The maximum truck toll went from $5 to $7.50. Most trucks will pay $6 instead of $4.

On hand for the first day was district president Stephan C Leonoudakis, who said he was present "not only to count the extra quarters, but to take them to the bank."

The increases will raise an additional $4 million a year to offset rising transit deficits, according to district estimates.

Miss Nolan said the association had hoped to have six cars, "but three couldn't get gas."

BLOCKAGE — Adele Nolan protests today's toll hike on the Golden Gate Bridge, refusing to pay the additional 25 cents to toll officer Everett Patton. A threat by security chief Dale Norton (pointing) to get a truck to push her out of the way, persuaded her to move to the parking lot. . .

. . . where California Highway Patrolman John Campion cited her for toll evasion and chided her for having burned her birthdate out of her driver's license. After he finally persuaded her to sign the ticket instead of going to city prison. . .

. . . she rewarded his patience with two sound kisses. Campion told newsmen the incident was "the silliest thing I ever heard of."

Seven Former Nixon Underlings Indicted

Charge Is Conspiracy To Obstruct Justice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The grand jury which has been investigating Watergate for 20 months today indicted seven of President Nixon's former top White House and campaign associates on charges of conspiring to obstruct justice.

Named were those in the top echelon of the first Nixon administration — H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, John N. Mitchell and Charles W. Colson. Haldeman was Nixon's chief of staff, Ehrlichman his domestic affairs adviser, Mitchell his attorney general and campaign manager, and Colson was his special counsel.

Others indicted were:

Robert C. Mardian, former assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's Internal Security Division and a former Nixon political aide who attended meetings at which the June 17, 1972 Watergate break-in was planned.

Gordon Strachan, a White House aide to Haldeman.

Kenneth W. Parkinson, attorney for the Committee to Reelect the President.

Further indictments from the Watergate grand juries—investigating campaign financing, the ITT affair and the Ellsberg break-in—still are expected.

At the same time as the long-awaited indictment was handed up by the grand jury, Leon Jaworski, the special Watergate prosecutor, stood before Sirica and handed him a "sealed report." The judge opened the brown manila envelope, read the contents and announced it would be resealed and kept in a safe place.

The contents were not disclosed, but it had been reported that the jury intended to make a separate report on its views of Nixon's possible role in Watergate.

Nixon is confident all Americans will join him in recognizing that his former White House aides who were indicted today "are presumed innocent until guilt is established in the courts," a spokesman said.

The indictment charged that the seven defendants "unlawfully, willfully and knowingly did combine, conspire and agree together with each other to commit offenses against the United States, to wit, to obstruct justice."

They were accused among other things of using "deceit, craft, trickery and dishonest means" to interfere with the Central Intelligence Agency.

Shortly after the break-in occurred at the Democratic National Committee's headquarters at the Watergate office building, some top officials of the CIA were instructed by White House representatives to direct the FBI to temper its Watergate investigation lest it uncover secret CIA operations.

The indictment also charged the seven conspired to defraud the United States by interfering with FBI and Justice Department investigations of the case.

The seven were accused of destroying "documents, papers, records and objects" related to the investigation.

In addition to separate charges, against the defendants individually, each was accused of conspiracy. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Mitchell, who went on trial today in New York City on charges of obstruction of justice in a separate case, also was indicted on five counts of making false statements, perjury and obstructing justice.

He and Nixon's former commerce secretary and chief fund-

Marin Gas Dealers Delay Odd-Even Plan

Marin County's motorists won't face odd-and-even day gasoline sales until at least March 11, the president of the county's independent service station owners said today.

Art Baptiste explained that the dealers and county supervisors want to work out legal questions and differences between the voluntary Marin plan and the state's mandatory plan which went into effect today in seven counties. Dealers had planned to start the new system on Monday.

The state's plan hasn't shortened lines at gasoline stations in Alameda, Contra Costa and Solano counties, which are among those which asked Governor Ronald Reagan to impose his emergency marketing plan, according to United Press International reports.

Three Marin County Supervisors were meeting in emergency session today with Baptiste and other dealers to discuss the dealers' proposal and potential problems with different rules in other counties. No votes were taken, the supervisors limited themselves to voicing individual opinions.

Baptiste said the results of today's meeting would be relayed to the dealer association members and final decisions probably will be made at Tuesday's regular meeting of the supervisors.

Participating in today's session were Board Chairman Michael Wornum, Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere and Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste.

Roumiguiere went to Sacramento yesterday, presenting the Marin plan at a lengthy session of the state's energy officials.

One serious question, Roumiguiere told the Independent-Journal today, was the legality of the dealers' proposal to put a $2, $3 or $4 minimum on sales, to discourage tank-topping which dealers say has unnecessarily lengthened waiting lines at stations.

"If a customer had to pay a $3 minimum and only needed two gallons of gasoline, obviously it would be a violation" of federal price controls, Roumiguiere explained.

Another difference to resolve is the Marin dealers' proposal to allow "potluck" sales to all comers on Saturdays; the state would allow sales only to cars

Mailliard Wins Confirmation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate today confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, as U.S. Ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Mailliard has not yet resigned from the House and was reported to be in California.

An aide said he did not know when Mailliard would submit his resignation.

Mailliard, 56, was first elected to Congress in 1952 and is the ranking Republican member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Kissinger Continues Shuttle In Mideast

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew today to Damascus with Israel's proposals for troop disengagement with Syria. They were reported to include the setting up of a demilitarized zone in the wartorn Golan Heights and a reciprocal thinning out of troops.

It was a busy day in which Kissinger saw the American flag raised over the U.S. Embassy in Cairo this morning for the first time in seven years, flew to Tel Aviv for five hours of talks with the Israeli leadership and then shuttled back to Damascus. He promised at Ben-Gurion airport to do his best to achieve peace in the area.

He had flown from Damascus to Tel Aviv earlier this week with a list of 65 Israeli prisoners of war held by the Syrians. And today International Red Cross officials in Syria visited 63 of the POWS. Israel had made these two steps a prerequisite for any negotiations with Syria and it took another Kissinger diplomatic triumph to accomplish this.

Kissinger's intense diplomatic efforts were almost matched by those of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. Gromyko ended his talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad and then shuttled to Cairo today for a five-hour visit, just missing Kissinger.

Election In Britain Deadlocked

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's general election ended today in deadlock, with Harold Wilson's Labor party likely to emerge as the largest single party but with no party commanding a majority in parliament at a time of grave economic crisis.

At 4:40 p.m. (11:40 p.m. EDT) party standings for 635 House of Commons seats were as follows: Conservatives 295 seats, Labor 300, Liberal 11, others 19. A party needs 318 seats for a majority; 10 seats were undecided.

It was one of the most indecisive elections in British history and political commentators said that horsetrading would start soon for support of an estimated 15 Liberals and 16 representatives of splinter parties who would hold the balance of power.

Most Severe Storm Of The Year Causes Heavy Bay Area Damage

The worst storm to hit the Bay Area this year continued to rage today in the wake of widespread damage yesterday and last night from heavy winds. (See photo, page 10.)

In Marin, trees were toppled, roofs blown off and several homes severely damaged. Thousands of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. customers were without electricity for varying periods of time after power lines snapped.

Along with the high winds, heavy rain soaked Marin, with more predicted for tonight and tomorrow. The weatherman, said, however, that the winds should start decreasing tonight.

The storm brought such heavy waves last night to Tiburon's waterfront that the Harbor Carriers ferry was unable to operate. Marinbound commuters who usually take the ferry home from San Francisco had to crowd aboard already jammed buses or take a ferry to Sausalito.

In Tamalpais Valley, a pine tree went down at about 3:45 p.m. yesterday, crushing a good part of a house at 160 Lavender Lane. The occupants, Charles Coombes and Gordon D. Smith, were not home at the time, firemen said, and a bulldog escaped unharmed.

Firemen estimated the damage at $15,000 and said the building is uninhabitable.

Robert H. Williams, district electrical superintendent for the PG&E, said, "We had thousands of outages, but no really large blocks of power failures." He said the outages were due to falling trees and limbs snap-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Cordoba Calmer

Gunfire heard in the night between opposing bands roaming the streets ended at dawn. Shops and industry in the city of 700,000 were closed by a general strike.

A police spokesman said 10 persons were wounded in gunfights Thursday, and witnesses reported seeing the body of a bullet-riddled woman lying on the street.

Key Victory

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi's ruling Congress Party inched over the top today to win a majority in the Uttar Pradesh state legislature elections.

Mrs. Gandhi had put her personal prestige on the line by touring the state and speaking to its 90 million people on behalf of her party's candidates.

With almost all of the 425 districts reporting, Congress legislators had won the magic 213 seats enabling them to form a Congress government in India's largest and politically most important state.

Crisis In Italy

ROME (UPI) — Italian political leaders met today to determine whether Premier Mario Rumor's shaky coalition government would be toppled by the surprise resignation of his treasury minister.

Ugo La Malfa, the 70-year-old treasury minister and leader of the small Republican party "irrevocably" quit Thursday because of dispute with Socialist Budget Minister Antonio Giolitti over a $1.2 billion World Bank loan.

Leaders of the coalition parties — Rumor's Christian Democrats, Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans— met past midnight and called more talks later this morning to discuss the fate of Italy's 35th government since World War II.

"The situation is so serious that I'd better not make improvised comments," Giolitti told newsmen.

Julie To Return To Her Home

Julie

Mrs. Eisenhower, who underwent surgery for a bleeding ovarian cyst Feb. 14 at the Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis, was released from the hospital two weeks ago. She had been resting at the White House until she was completely recovered.

More Bombs

BELFAST (UPI) — Terrorists set off a dozen bombs in downtown Belfast Thursday night, killing a man and wounding two other persons at the end of balloting in Britain's national elections.

Police said three of the bombs exploded near City Hall, one of the main centers for counting ballots cast in the province for the British parliamentary elections.

In the most serious blast, authorities said extremists tossed a bomb through the doorway of the Roman Catholic-owned Red Star pub, sending shrapnel ripping into patrons near the entrance.

Police said one man was killed by the blast. A spokesman said two persons were wounded, including a 40-year-old woman who lost both her legs.

Cuts Cabinet

PARIS (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Messmer today announced a drastically reduced cabinet to wage war against France's mounting economic woes.

After more than one hour of talks at the Elysee Presidential Palace, Messmer said President Georges Pompidou approved a new administration of 16 ministers against 23 in the old one, and 13 secretaries of state against 15.

The key offices of foreign affairs, finance and defense were unchanged, but Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin lost his portfolio.

A high government official said Messmer's aim was to produce a tighter, more united cabinet to tackle France's rising twin scourges of energy and inflation.

Outpost Shelled

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops fired a barrage of mortar rounds today at an embattled government outpost near Saigon, the latest attack in a year-long 17,000-shell Communist drive against the base.

The Saigon command said the Communists fired 76 mortar rounds at Tong Le Chan, a ranger base, 56 miles north of Saigon, but there were no reported casualties.

The outpost, said to be surrounded by some 6,000 North Vietnamese troops, has been encircled since the Jan. 28, 1973, cease-fire, with supplies coming in by parachute and helicopter.

The Saigon command said the outpost has been subjected to more than two dozen ground probes in addition to the numerous shellings since the truce.

An Equality Law For Female Dogs

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — An equal rights for female dogs bill has been introduced in the Idaho Legislature.

The bill introduced in the House would affect Bellevue, the only charter city left in the state. Local ordinances must be changed by the legislature under the charter.

Bellevue is required to charge $2 to license male dogs and $5 for female dogs. The charter change would enable the town of 537 persons about 35 miles south of Sun Valley to charge what it wants to license dogs, without the mandatory sex discrimination.

WIND-WHIPPED TRAILER

Mrs. Jean Mansfield and her son got out of their trailer home moments before it blew over onto an adjacent car as 60-mile-an-hour winds whipped Reno yesterday. The winds toppled at least six trailer homes, pushed numerous others off their blocks and hurt several persons, including a workman on a highrise construction job.

Muslim Leader Changes Tune

CHICAGO (AP) — Black Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad has urged his followers to thank white people for the opportunity Muslims have received to expand their multi-million-dollar movement.

In the past, the 76-year-old Muhammad has preached hatred for "white devils" and separatism from white society.

He told some 25,000 Black Muslims gathered from around the nation for the sect's annual Savior's Day on Tuesday to honor and respect white people.

"Stop putting the blame on the slave owner," he said. "You have only yourselves to blame."

Poll Shows GOP Favors Hayakawa

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Poll said today the State Supreme Court scratched the leading GOP contender in the U.S. Senate race when it barred Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley from running as a Republican.

The survey showed Hayakawa "had a clear lead in Republican voter popularity over two other Republican U.S. Senatorial candidates, State Sen. H. Richardson and former State Director of Health and Welfare, Earl Brian," the poll announced.

The poll said the survey was completed just before the court decision barring the Japanese-American educator and before James E. Johnson, former assistant secretary of the Navy, announced he would run for the GOP nomination.

The survey, taken February 2 to 11, disclosed that 51 per cent of the Republicans queried would vote for Hayakawa if the primary were held then. Richardson received 23 per cent and Brian 10.

In a poll of voters of all parties, Hayakawa received 39 per cent of the vote compared to 52 per cent for incumbent Democrat Alan Cranston.

Both Richardson and Brian moved up in the poll of GOP voters when second choice preference of those favoring Hayakawa were allocated to them. Richardson got 44 per cent while Brian had 20 per cent. Undecided voters made up 36 per cent.

He resigned last year and planned to run in the Republican primary after switching his registration from the Democratic Party.

The Supreme Court ruled last Tuesday he failed to comply with a state law that a primary election candidate for the Senate must have been a member of no other party for an additional nine months prior to filing time.

LIVING HOOD ORNAMENT

Standing on the hood of this compact car, this German Shepherd dog posed as though it was a hood ornament. The car was parked at Fifth Avenue and A Street in San Rafael yesterday. The dog tried several times to get inside the car and then, apparently tired of waiting for its owner, ran off down the street.

Steel Industry Can Hike Prices By 5.3 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council citing the need for long-run price stability, has allowed the steel industry to raise prices an average of 5.3 per cent.

In addition to increasing prices on all products now, steel producers may raise prices additionally once a month to account for rapidly increasing costs of scrap metal, a vital raw material.

"The council has determined that in the interest of longer-run price stability and increased capacity, steel firms must be allowed to increase prices now to reflect incurred cost increases," said council Director John T. Dunlop.

The decision covers both big and small firms in the nation's second largest industry. All steel products may now be raised to reflect higher labor, material and other costs incurred since Jan. 31, the date of the last government-authorized increase.

Griffith Park in Los Angeles, according to the National Automobile Club, contains three inactive volcanoes.

Novato Hopefuls Agree Better Communications Link Is Needed

Novato City Council candidates spoke yesterday before an audience that had already decided how it will vote.

At the start members of the audience were asked if any hadn't yet decided how they were going to go vote, and only one man raised his hand.

Candidates spoke at a Novato Chamber of Commerce luncheon, which was swelled by backers of various candidates.

All candidates tangled with the problem of increasing communication between city government and residents.

Candidate Edward Brooks proposed a poll to get residents opinions, a town hall meeting, and invitations to residents to attend council meetings.

Candidate F. Wayne Sartain, an incumbent, said "We have tried town meetings and we have tried notices and the response has not been that great."

Candidate David E. Milano said residents have brought matters to councilmen and "to city hall and didn't get any action. They should have an answer. . . yes or no."

Candidate Gail M. Wilhelm suggested having hearings in the neighborhoods involved and having notices written so they are understandable, not "in legalese."

Mrs. Wilhelm, who said during the campaign that the chamber should spend its time encouraging business rather than criticizing the city, was challenged by Joseph Wright, chairman of the chamber's economic development committee.

Wright said "a great deal of time and effort" has been spent to encourage business and that the chamber has the right to criticize the city.

Mrs. Wilhelm replied it isn't to Novato's advantage to have the chamber say the council "does not serve Novato well."

Candidates favored commercial development on the Hanna Ranch at the future Rowland Boulevard-Highway 101 interchange, but Sartain said he doubted he would support the proposal for two gasoline service stations there. "They would have to prove to me the availability of gasoline and the need, they said.

The man, who said at the start he was undecided, said at the close of the meeting he had made his decision.

Booking In Motorhome Theft Made

A 24-year-old man was arrested today on suspicion of a variety of offenses, including stealing a motorhome, after the vehicle ran out of gas in Mill Valley.

The man refused to give his correct name to police, officers said. In addition to auto theft, he was booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing stolen property and giving false information to police. He was held in lieu of $2,250 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court. A resident of 36 Portola Lane telephoned police at 1:57 a.m. to report that the motorhome was partially blocking his driveway.

Officers said the man in the motorhome, a 1972 Dodge, told them it had run out of gas. He gave as identification an automobile club card and an auto registration reported stolen from a car in Sausalito Wednesday, investigators said.

A check revealed that the motorhome had been stolen Wednesday night from Charles Minton of 55 Cambridge Heights in Novato, police reported.

Image Building Party Is Held

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (UPI) — The St. Thomas Taxi Association threw a cocktail party yesterday for all the tourists who wanted to attend. The cab drivers took the tourists to Harry Truman International Airport fare-free.

In a move to help rebuild its crime-damaged tourism image the Virgin Islands government proclaimed February as tourist promotion month.

During the month, taxi drivers offered their services free to carry visitors to open houses held by local residents as part of a "people-to-people" program.

INDICTED

raiser, Maurice H. Stans, are being tried on charges of soliciting campaign gifts from financier Robert Vesco in exchange for government favors. They are the first former Cabinet members to go on trial since the Harding administration's "Teapot Dome" scandal.

The seven were accused of conspiring to offer clemency to secure the silence of three of the seven men originally arrested in the Watergate break-in—E. Howard Hunt Jr., G. Gordon Liddy and James W. McCord.

Haldeman was indicted on four counts of obstruction of justice and perjury.

Ehrlichman, a lawyer, also faces trial in Los Angeles on charges of approving the break-in by the White House "Plumbers" at the Beverly Hills office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Some of the same men who participated in the Watergate break-in had a hand in that burglary on Labor Day weekend, 1971.

One of the other grand juries is expected to return indictments in connection with activities of the "Plumbers," a unit formed under Ehrlichman's general supervision to plug news leaks.

Ehrlichman was accused in today's indictment of four counts of obstruction of justice and lying to the FBI and the grand jury.

Strachan, once an associate in Nixon's and Mitchell's New York law firm, was staff assistant to Haldeman. He was charged with two counts of obstruction of justice and false declarations.

Mardian, Colson and Parkinson were indicted on charges of conspiracy.

STORM

The hardest hit areas were Mill Valley, San Rafael and West Marin, Williams said. One-hundred men worked through the night to restore power, according to Williams.

Public works departments throughout Marin were busy removing trees from streets, and numerous roofs from patios and other structures were reported blown off.

Roofs were blown off homes in Fairfax and nearby Oak Manor, firemen said, with the damage reported to a house at 75 Sequoia Road in Fairfax, where a W. Sullivan lives, and at the S. Sawyer residence at 21 Mariele Drive in Oak Manor.

The wind also broke numerous windows in Marin, including one at the Fabric Show in the Corte Madera Center.

There was no report of storm damage in Southern Sonoma County.

Rainfall reported in various areas in the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today included:

Bolinas, 1.05 inch; Sausalito, 1.05; Mill Valley, 1; Tamalpais Valley, 1.29; Belvedere, .75; Tiburon, .38; San Anselmo, 1.62; Corte Madera, 1.02; Larkspur, 1.15; Woodacre, 1.78; Fairfax, 1, and Novato, 1.35.

Elsewhere in Northern California, heavy snow warnings were posted for the Sierra. Blizzards were predicted in some mountain areas, with blowing and drifting snow bringing hazardous driving conditions.

More Food Tomorrow Uncertain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Officials of the Hearst food giveaway program, aimed at winning the release of kidnaped Patricia Hearst, today considered whether to postpone the next distribution day scheduled for tomorrow.

The program's head, A. Ludlow Kramer, said yesterday's successful operation during which more than $200,000 worth of food was given to between 25,000 and 30,000 persons so exhausted the volunteer staff that they might not be able to prepare for the next scheduled opening tomorrow.

"Most people are so tired we might skip tomorrow and do it on Tuesday instead," Kramer said.

The second day of operation yesterday went smoothly, in sharp contrast to the program's first day a week ago which degenerated into fighting and brawling.

But as yet there still was no response from Patricia's kidnapers, the Symbionse Liberation Army, who have held her since Feb. 4. The SLA has maintained an eight-day silence since insisting that the food program established by Patricia's father was not big enough to show good faith.

GAS

with odd or even license plates depending on what day of the month the Saturday falls. The Marin voluntary plan considers all-letter environmental license plates to be even-numbered plates while Reagan's plan treats them as odd-numbered. Thus drivers of personalized-plate cars could drive to whatever Bay Area county would sell them gasoline on any given day, unlike owners of numbered-plate autos.

San Francisco, however, has neither subscribed to the state plan nor to any voluntary alternative.

In counties under the state plan, odd-number licensed cars are eligible to buy gasoline today — and stations were mobbed this morning. Many of the drivers said they doubted any stations would open Sunday — March 3 — and they couldn't wait until Tuesday.

Reagan had asked stations to resume business hours on Sunday.

The Marin County supervisors had planned to discuss the problem again at their regular meeting Tuesday, but today's emergency meeting may produce a decision before then. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said the emergency justified holding the session without the normal 24-hour public notice required by the Brown Act state antisecrecy laws.

Appeal Hearing Set Tomorrow

An assessment appeal hearing for property owners in the Stinson Beach County Water District will be at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Stinson Beach Community Center, according to Harriet M. Greene, district secretary.

Property owners may appeal assessments for the proposed sewer system and treatment plan which will face voter approval Tuesday.

BRITAIN

at 3 p.m. and then canceled it without explanation.

Wilson, the nearest thing to a victor in this cliffhanging contest, met with his shadow cabinet to decide what action they should take.

If Wilson did form a minority government, political commentators said, it would have to be with at least tacit support of the Liberals and some of the splinter group representatives. These included Welsh and Scottish Nationalists and assorted Northern Ireland groups.

A Conservative party spokesman said Heath has not yet made up his mind whether to tender his government's resignation to Queen Elizabeth.

He said Heath also has had no contact with Wilson or Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe and that such contact is unlikely. He said Heath has been consultating leading members of his government.

The spokesman said Heath postponed his decision because it appears that, whatever the final voting figures, Labor will be at least 16 seats short of an overall majority.

Puffing his pipe, grinning and waving to crowds of supporters, Wilson returned to his London home from Liverpool and at once called a meeting of his Labor party shadow cabinet — the men who would form the government if Labor were in power.

He said a new government must be formed at once to get Britain back to a full work week from the three-day week imposed on industry two months ago to save fuel stocks in the coal crisis.

"This is of paramount importance," Wilson said.

The last time Britain had a minority Labor party government with Liberal support was in 1929 under Labor's James Ramsay MacDonald.

But the MacDonald government was overwhelmed by the 1929 world economic crisis and fell after only two years. It was replaced in 1931 by a coalition "National" government dominoted by the Conservatives.

Sentencing Slated In Tape Theft

A former Synanon member who pleaded guilty to burglarizing the rehabilitation center in Marshall is to be sentenced March 25 in Marin Municipal Court.

Twilver Tenola Earle, 25, of San Francisco, admitted on Tuesday that he stole tape recordings of Synanon "games" in January 1973.

Synanon officials have said Earle and Faucette took the tapes to aid the San Francisco Examiner in a $32 million libel suit filed by Synanon.

Petaluma Cars Target Of BB-Guns

BB-gun vandals have been on a spree in Petaluma this week, shooting holes in auto windshields all around the city.

So far, according to police department records, about 25 cases have been reported. All the incidents took place during the night, and most were discovered by vehicle owners the following mornings.

"It's kind of hard to understand," said Police Chief Larry D. Higgins. "It might be happening because people are kind of uptight about not having gas, and feeling more frustrated."

He compared the window shootings, which began Sunday night, to several cases of service station vandalism over the last weekend.

"It's probably a venting of frustration," he said. "There's no other way to explain why the devil people do this kind of thing."

No estimate of damage has been made.

Lagunitas Budget To Be Studied

The Lagunitas School District board, which this week received a "dim picture" on the district's financial situation for next year, will hold a workshop on the 1974-75 budget at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday.

Supt. Harry F. Roche told trustees that he predicts about a $23,000 reserve for the next year's budget but that under state legislation, the district will be limited to a $18,000 increase in revenues from taxes.

With a rising enrollment and inflation, he said the district probably cannot continue the same level of services under the predicted income for next year.

In other action Wednesday, the board voted to give $1,500 in matching funds to a parents committee for development of the playground at San Geronimo Valley School.

Youth Held In Burglary Case

A 15-year-old San Francisco youth was arrested yesterday by Larkspur police for the burglary of a home and theft of a motorcycle last month.

Police said the youth, whose name was withheld on standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, turned himself in at the Larkspur police station yesterday at 5 p.m.

He was booked into Marin Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglarizing the home of George Sewell, 2130 Redwood Highway, and taking Sewell's motorcycle on Feb. 20.

Police said the youth turned himself in because he had been identified during the theft.

A Case Of Pocketbook Politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Public opinion apparently has killed a proposed 24 per cent pay increase for Congress and 10,000 high-level civil servants.

The Senate will vote Monday on whether to settle for 5.5 per cent. If that proposal passes, the House will probably go along without its members having to publicly commit themselves through a roll call vote.

While the Senate discussed legislation yesterday to raise the national minimum wage from $1.60 to $2.20 an hour over two years with only a few members on the floor, most senatorial attention focused on cloakroom maneuvering over the proposed pay raises for Congress and executive-level government employees.

Under existing law, the three-stage, 24 per cent increase proposed by President Nixon in his budget would take effect automatically March 9 unless one house of Congress blocked or changed it.

Adverse public opinion has been so strong that sentiment grew here to tone down the increase.

Fearing voter retaliation, the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee approved by a 19-2 vote a resolution to kill the entire proposal.

But, with the backing of House leaders of both parties, the House adopted the strategy of doing nothing while the Senate — where only one-third of the members stand for election this fall—wrestles with the issue.

The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee voted to approve the full increase for everyone except Congress.

Congressional pay has been $42,500 a year since Congress gave itself a 42 per cent raise in 1969.

The committee proposal found little support and the committee has abandoned it. In the cloakrooms, agreement was reached to vote next week on these competing plans:

A proposal by Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, to grant the full 24 per cent increase but to make it effective next January, after the elections.

A proposal by Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., to grant a 5.5 per cent "cost-of-living" increase.

A proposal by Sens. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, to kill the pay increase for all.

Three Seek Dossiers From FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three members of the House Judiciary Committee have asked to see FBI dossiers on them. Another congressman, who is under federal indictment for influence-peddling, Thursday charged he was "bugged" on orders of the President.

New York Democrat Bertram L. Podell, speaking on the House floor, Thursday said the fact that he was electronically bugged was obvious from an order by the judge in his case forbidding comments on the surveillance.

The order, he said, "was based on an affidavit by Attorney General William B. Saxbe, who stated that the defendants in my case, or one of them, were electronically surveilled on numerous occasions in the interests of national security as a result of an order by the President of the United States, Richard Nixon."

By speaking on the House floor, Podell was immune from prosecution for violating any court order forbidding comments.

"The President never ordered electronic surveillance or any other type of surveillance on Congressman Podell," said Gerald Warren, the White House deputy press secretary. "Any charge to the contrary is ludicrous."

"I know of no member of the House or Senate whose telephone is being tapped," said FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

Congressmen Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y. and Robert McClory, R-Ill., all said the FBI has noncriminal dossiers on them and they want to see what they contain. Officials said such dossiers on congressmen are no longer compiled, but those that were compiled in previous years are still in FBI files.

Kelley told the Judiciary Committee that if Saxbe approves, he will let the three see their files.

Kelley also came out against a proposal endorsed by Saxbe to seal criminal records to protect the privacy of rehabilitated persons, saying he opposes any congressional limit on criminal data banks.

Pet Alligators Turned On Wife

BERLIN (UPI) — A West Berlin husband who quarreled with his wife ran her out of the house by letting loose his two pet alligators, police said today.

A fire department emergency squad cornered the 28-inch-long alligators, named Charly and Jonathan, and returned them to their tank.

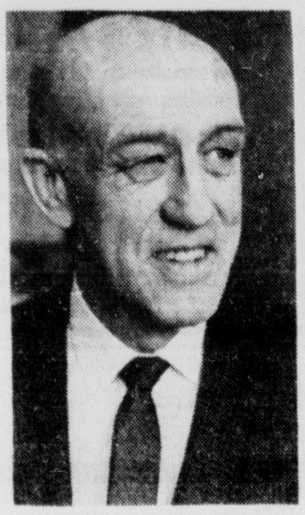
Elks Citizen Award Goes To I-J Editor



BRYCE W. ANDERSON
Hailed as patriot

Bryce W. Anderson, associate editor of the Independent-Journal, has been named Citizen of the Year by the San Rafael Elks Club.

The annual award is given by the club to a local individual who contributes most to the preservation of the "American way of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness," as well as the general welfare of the nation and community, according to the organization's newsletter.

Anderson, 62, was cited as a champion of the silent majority, a critic of slackening moral standards and teaching methods in local schools and as a defender of constitutional rights and privileges.

"Mr. Anderson, by his fearless, objective and patriotic editorials has done much to call attention to and stem the tide of radicalism, disregard for and dilution of American laws and principles so prevalent throughout our nation today," according to the club.

The organization also praised Anderson for being "unalterably opposed to any public servant using his office for personal gain, profit or benefit. Last but not least, he has long campaigned for the return of government to the people."

Woman Is Hospitalized For Beating

Barbara Taber, 46, of 35 Barbaree Way, the Cove Apartments, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries and a broken nose.

Sheriff's investigators were at the hospital this morning to question the woman about the attack. "Until she can tell us something, we are completely in the dark," a sheriff's spokesman said.

Deputies answering a routine ambulance call at 4:59 p.m. arrived at the woman's apartment to find the door locked. After the apartment manager opened the door, officers said they found the woman lying in a pool of blood and the apartment in shambles.

Tass Says Tests Over In Pacific

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has ended its current series of missile tests in the Pacific Ocean, the Tass news agency said today.

Tass said it had been authorized to report that the 130-nautical-mile radius test area northwest of Midway island is now open to ships and aircraft again.

The Soviets began the tests Feb.19 and originally had announced that the area would be off limits until March 10.

Tass gave no explanation for the early ending of the tests but said they had been successfully completed.

The U.S. Defesnse Department said the tests involved dummy mulptiple warheads on the new Soviet SS-X-18 missile, fired from the Tyuratam area in Central Asia 5,800 miles away.

Protective Dad Slays Two Men

CARACAS (UPI) — Two men celebrating Mardi Gras by throwing water at passsersby were shot and killed by a 72-year-old man defending his 45-year-old son, police reported Thursday.

Acisclo Montilla Molina told police that he shot Jose Antonio Ure, 34, and Pablo Delgado, 28, when he got into a scuffle with his son, Adelys Montilla.

Police said that due to Molina's advanced age, he would probably not be imprisoned. Under Venezuelan law, a person under 70 years of age, would normally face 12 years imprisonment for a similar case of manslaughter, they said.

Soviets Seek GM's Knowledge On Trucks

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp., the world's largest auto manufacturer, has been asked by the Soviet Union to help build a giant new truck plant in Siberia.

Nikolai S. Patolichev, the Soviet minister of foreign trade, disclosed yesterday that discussions are under way on the project, which would rival the new Kama River Truck Complex in the western U.S.S.R.

Both he and GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg cautioned that discussions still are in the preliminary stage and GM's involvement in the project still has not been decided. Ford Motor Co. tried to work out a deal three years ago to help build a heavy truck factory, but was turned down by the U.S. State Department, partly because of the Vietnam war.

Patolichev, who would not reveal where in Siberia the new plant would be located, said it would be similar to the Kama River Project. That complex can turn out up to 150,000 trucks and 150,000 diesel engines a year.

"We intend to build in Siberia a major truck facility and we approached General Motors with a request to know if it thought it could cooperate," he said through a translator. "This cooperation may include engineering, supplies and equipment, much like the way we cooperated with the Fiat Co. of Italy."

Gerstenberg said GM and the Soviet Union "have had discussions of possible business transactions over the past two years with the encouragement of our government.

"These discussions cover the sale of such items as heavy duty trucks and trailers, earth-moving equipment, locomotives, diesel engines and certain household appliances," Gerstenbergsaid.

"We have also discussed the possibility of licensing agreements and technical assistance on plant facility projects," he said. "Some of these items were again discussed this week, but no agreements have been reached."

Patolichev and other members of the U.S.-U.S.S.R trade and economic council toured GM's new truck plant in nearby Pontiac Thursday.

PROTESTER WON'T BUDGE

Max Inglet, 27, a paraplegic veteran and one of a group of disabled veterans occupying the office of Sen. Alan Cranston in Los Angeles, lies on the 13th floor of the senator's office as VA Chief Donald Johnson refused to come to the office and discuss the protest. Johnson flew from Washington yesterday to meet with the dissident veterans but a stalemate was caused when Johnson would not come from the seventh floor to the 13. The veterans have been encamped in Cranston's office for two weeks. (UPI Telephoto)

Drinkers Said Bilked Of Millions In State

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Beer, wine and liquor drinkers in California have been the million-dollar victims of laws tailored to fit the special interests of the state's alcoholic beverage industry since 1939, according to a special legislative study.

The 18-month study by a Senate committee said statewide imbibers, who have the highest consumption rate in the nation, are being overcharged $150 million a year under present "fair trade" laws.

"For the past 40 years the manufacturers, wholesalers, distributors and retailers of alcoholic beverages have been lining their pockets with excessively high profits guaranteed under present state law," Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, said yesterday in releasing the report.

The "fair trade" system has been in effect since 1939 and was first enacted to promote temperance by eliminating price wars among liquor retailers.

But the report said testimony before the committee and staff research "proves conclusively that the California consumer is paying artificially high retail prices for alcoholic beverages."

In other states without state enforced retail price maintenance "identical merchandise retails at from 30 to 50 per cent less than California prices," it added.

The committee also recommended that excise taxes on alcoholic beverages be increased 100 per cent and the new revenue be used for alcoholic treatment centers on the local level.

The report said that doubling the tax would not result in higher retail prices if the "fair trade" laws were repealed. The committee, the members of which in addition to Short include Sens. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, and Sen. John Harmer, R-Glendale, also made the following recommendations:

Require accurate disclosure of contents, including use of additives and preservatives, on labels of all alcoholic beverages sold in California.

Prohibit the use of misleading terms on alcoholic beverage labels.

Prohibit commercial advertising of all alcoholic beverages in California.

Repeal the California Wine Marketing Order because the "wine industry is well established and has been in business long enough to stand on its own feet without any state help."

Nixon's Lawyers Stick To Impeachment Guns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the continuing verbal avalanche on impeachment, President Nixon's attorneys hold firmly that he can only be impeached for criminal offenses.

In a 61-page analysis, five of Nixon's attorneys argued yesterday for a strict interpretation of the Constitution, which states a president can only be impeached for "treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

They sent the report to the House Judiciary Committee, which had not requested it, and which has published its own staff study holding that violation of a specific criminal law is not required for presidential impeachment.

A third historical study released by the Justice Department last Friday took the middle ground and said historical and legal precedents do not show conclusively whether a president can be impeached for anything other than a crime.

Nixon's lawyers, headed by James D. St. Clair, said they had no doubts.

"Not only do the words inherently require a criminal offense, but one of very serious nature committed in one's governmental capacity," their analysis said.

Clerk Will Challenge Some Votes

The county clerk for elections today announced that at the request of the City of Sausalito he will challenge some votes in the municipal elections Tuesday in Sausalito.

Sausalito City Clerk Miriam Ansell reported to the Sausalito City Council on Jan. 2 that the more than 150 voters on the registration rolls for Gates Three, Four and Five do not appear to meet residence requirements.

Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer said that each person challenged will be asked to swear that he has been a resident of the precinct for 30 days just prior to the election, has not voted or registered to vote in any other precinct in that period or made a legal claim to be a resident of another precinct, or left the precinct for other than a temporary reason.

If the person refuses to take the oath or answer the questions, he shall not be allowed to vote, Meyer said.

Issen said he was getting rid of the cigarette machine.

Victorian Motif Clothing Shop Gains Panel Support

Fashion Conspiracy, a women's apparel shop with a Victorian motif, should be the next tenant for Sausalito's City Hall, the planning commission has recommended.

The city plans to vacate its present offices in the busy downtown commercial area and move in April to larger and quieter quarters at Central School on Caledonia Street. It has been seeking a renter for several months.

In unanimously favoring the clothing firm, Town Shops of California Inc., commissioners rejected two other proposals, from India Imports Inc. for an import store, and from James A. Roman for a shop specializing in gourmet cookware

Meeting Wednesday, commissioners held the Victorian style would be in keeping with the present flavor of the Bridgeway business district, and that the clothing outlet would attract less tourist trade than the other proposals, according to Planning Director Herb Case.

The firm also has agreed to make no structural alterations to the building's interior or exterior facade.

Town Shops is offering to take on a 10-year lease with a five-year option for a minimum guaranteed rental of $25,000 a year, Case said.

The city council recently approved the purchase of Central School with money already in the city treasury. Coffers will be reimbursed later, when bonds approved last June by voters are sold.

The city must realize at least $24,000 a year from the lease to meet annual payments on the $306,000 bond transaction.

Final approval of the clothing firm rests with city councilmen. No date has been set for them to review the proposals.

Jury Can't Decide On Bilking Scheme

A Marin Superior Court Jury yesterday was unable to each a verdict in the case of two women accused of operating a "pigeon drop" scheme in Marin County.

Jurors split 8-to-4 in the case of Clara Frost Serrano, 23, of Los Angeles, and Gwendolyn Annette Ivy, 33, of Oakland.

There was no indication whether the majority of jurors leaned toward conviction or acquittal.

The women are charged with grand theft in an unsuccessful attempt to bilk a Tiburon woman in January 1973, and grand theft in the swindle of $2,400 from a San Rafael woman in October.

In both cases, Mrs. Ivy and Mrs. Serrano were said to have approached their victims at the Northgate Shopping Center and said an envelope containing $40,000 had been found.

In order to share the money, the victim was instructed to put up "good faith" money, which was to be returned after a "straw corporation" was formed.

The eight men and four women on the jury reported to Judge E. Warren McGuire that they were hopelessly deadlocked after a one-day trial and nearly six hours of deliberation. A new trial date will be set Wednesday.

The women also were thought to have swindled another woman of $3,300 in September 1972, but were not charged with that crime.

Sanitary Board Approves Annex

The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District board last night approved annexation of a parcel eyed for development by California Covenant Church.

The board approved annexation of three acres near the golf course road on which the church proposes a church building and an office complex, according to engineer Ed Tibbetts.

Board member Frank D. Solomon Jr. abstained, he said.

Tibbetts noted that the board has taken no action on connections needed by developers for the church complex.

The board next meets at 7:30 p.m. March 14.

Passenger Gets Booted

CIUDAD BOLIVAR, Venezuela (UPI) — A passenger kissed a tour guide and a stewardess aboard an Avensa airlines airliner Thursday and the pilot turned the plane around, made an unscheduled landing and ejected him.

Capt. Efrain Blanco, pilot of the plane en route from Ciudad Bolivar to the jungle resort of Canaima, turned back after 25 minutes in the air and landed in Ciudad Bolivar.

The obstreperous passenger, who was not identified, was handed over to national guardsmen at the airport. They reported he was drunk.

TREE TOPPLES IN FAIRFAX

A Fairfax public works employee armed with a buzzsaw stands in the scoop of a tractor as he cuts into a tree felled by strong winds on Dominga Avenue yesterday. One neighbor said the tree, which nearly crushed two parked cars, "came down in a big whoosh, with branches flying." Other neighbors braved rains yesterday to haul away wood cut by workmen. (See storm story, page 1.)

Tam High District Principals Rehired; One Escapes Challenge

Two Tamalpais High School District principals were rehired last night by a unanimous vote of district trustees present and a third kept his job when a move to give him notice that he might not rehired was defeated.

Donald Kreps, Redwood High School, and Jack Hayes, Sir Francis Drake High School, were rehired on 3-to-0 votes (trustee Jarrold M. Ladar absent).

About 70 Drake students, teachers and parents appeared before trustees to support the rehiring of Hayes and several spoke in his favor. One group brought a sign to the meeting saying, "We want Jack back," according to Supt. Robert D. Torrey.

The parents were there because some question had previously been raised about the rehiring of Hayes because he had been appointed last year as an acting principal and trustees were uncertain if he could be reappointed or if the position would be opened for applicants.

Dr. Lawrence Sheppard, Tamalpais High School principal, was the subject to criticism by three parents from Mill Valley.

Trustees Robert W. Corlett made a motion that Sheppard be given notice that he might not be rehired but that motion was defeated 1-to-2.

Trustees annually review the principals and if they are not sent notice before March 1 that they might not be rehired, as in Sheppard's case, they are automatically rehired for another year.

Trustees met in closed session for almost three hours to interview the principals and decide on the rehiring.

School Replaces Bells With Rock

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Solon High School has switched from bells to the Beatles, ballads and blues to mark breaks in classes.

E. James Kotora, assistant principal, said the bell system the suburban community's school had used "sounded too institutional and sometimes it wouldn't work."

Now the school uses four-minute, tape-recorded musical selections, including rock, country-Western and seasonal songs.

"The kids like the rock," Kotora said. "The teachers seem to enjoy more of the romantic ballads and blues.

"The atmosphere is more relaxing and humanizing," he added.

ACLU Files Challenge To Kindergarten Song

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Rohnert Park Kindergarten students won't be singing "Thank You, God, for Everything" much longer if the Sonoma County American Civil Liberties has its way.

The organization has filed suit in superior court here, charging that the song "constitutes an establishment of religion forbidden by the First Amendment."

ACLU lawyer Martin M. Spiegel of Santa Rosa, who filed the suit, said that "the use of the very song described in the petition was held illegal by the United States Courts of Appeal for the Second and Seventh Circuits."

The legal action is the most recent phase of a controversy which began on Feb. 5, when school district trustees were notified by the civil liberties group that a lawsuit would be filed unless the song "Thanksgiving" was dropped at Waldo Rohnert Elementary School, where a parent had complained her kindergarten-age daughter was being made to sing it.

School authorities countered that the song is contained in a state-adopted music text. The song was not dropped, although the 5-year-old girl whose mother complained was allowed to leave the room during singing.

Visting Superior Court Judge Timothy O'Brien on Tuesday ordered the school district to "cease and desist" or else appear in court at 9 a.m. March 11 to justify the song's use.

Drug Informant's Word Challenged

A narcotics informant who is the chief prosecution witness in a Marin Superior Court drug trial was described yesterday as a homosexual who used heroin and cocaine while working as an undercover operative.

The testimony came from defense witness Victor Sharp, 35, a San Quentin inmate, in the trial of William Reed Lane, 39, of San Francisco.

Sharp said he took part in about 15 marijuana smuggling ventures in 1969 with Wesley L. Schlagel, 26, who later became an informant for the federal narcotics task force in San Francisco.

"I cannot remember any (smuggling venture) involving less than 500 kilos (of marijuana)," Sharp said. A kilo is 2.2 pounds.

The soft-spoken Sharp said the profit from each venture ran between $50,000 and $100,000 and that Schlagel kept most of the money for himself.

Although Deputy Dist. Atty. Girard R. Courteau launched a barrage of objections, defense attorney J. Tony Serra was able to delve into Sharp's impressions of Schlagel's sexual background.

The inmate testified Schlagel made sexual advances toward him; that the two went to a "male sex house" in San Francisco and Schlagel paid $1,000 to a man to perform a sex act with him, and that Schlagel made "pornographic films" in Los Angeles.

Between May and July, 1973, when Schlagel was working on the Lane case, Sharp said he saw the informant use cocaine numerous times and inhale heroin once.

His testimony directly refutes that of Schlagel, who said he was not a homosexual and that he "simulated" using cocaine but did not inhale it.

Sharp, who is in San Quentin awaiting a parole hearing, said Schlagel took him to a house in Oakland last June and showed him 300 kilos of marijuana.

Sharp was arrested the next month for allegedly selling 14 pounds of marijuana to an undercover agent, but, he said, the case was thrown out of federal district court in San Francisco when a judge ruled it was a case of entrapment.

Sharp said Schlagel gave him the marijuana to sell to an undercover agent, then testified against him.

Although the charge was dismissed, Sharp a former prison inmate on parole, was taken to San Quentin while the Adult Authority decides whether to revoke his parole.

Following Sharp's testimony, Lane took the stand in his defense. He denied ever meeting Schlagel at a Tiburon bar last May and showing him $42,500 in cash, as Schlagel had testified.

Lane and three other persons were arrested July 27 in a raid on a three-story bayfront home on Belvedere's Corinthian Island.

Seized were four gallons of hashish oil, a pound of marijuana, an ounce of cocaine and a pistol equipped with an illegal silencer, according to narcotics agents.

Randee Lou Lindersmith, 27, was cleared in the case, while Stephen Mallon Royce, 36, and Carol Millikin, age unknown, are being sought by authorities.

Second Woman Gets Her Wings

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — Another woman has earned Navy pilot's wings. Judith Neuffer of Wooster, Ohio, became the second woman in Navy history Wednesday to become a Navy flyer.

The 25-year-old Ohio State University graduate was assigned to a hurricane hunter squadron in Jacksonville, Fla. She formerly worked in the Navy's San Diego, Calif., computer center. She received her wings in ceremonies at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

State's Energy Saving Slipping

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. reported Thursday that its customers have slipped in the drive to conserve energy.

The PG&E told the California Public Utilities Commission that its load was down just 9.6 per cent this month. A 15 per cent drop had been recommended.

"February's effort wasn't as good as January's," a company spokesman said. "We don't quite know why."

The January reduction was 12.5 per cent.

Female Deputy Wins Appeal On Promotion

A female sheriff's deputy yesterday won her appeal for job promotion before the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Riva Richmond, who had been classifed as a Deputy I since 1969, was promoted to Deputy II and Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos was directed to find her a position meeting her qualifications.

Mrs. Richmond had earlier passed necessary examinations for the promotion but was passed over by Mountanos because, he said, his existing vacancies were for patrol work.

Mrs. Richmond, who currently works in the jail, appealed Mountanos' decision and was upheld. Mountanos said yesterday he had passed her over because he will not use women for patrol work.

He said he would review his staffing setup and find a position for her.

The promotion means an increase of about $100-per-month for Mrs. Richmond, who was first employed by the department in 1965 as a clerk-typist.

The sheriff's department has two other female Deputy IIs, one working in the county jail and the other in the juvenile division.

Rustling Grows In Wisconsin

RACINE, Wis. (UPI) — Cattle rustling appears to be on the rise and law enforcement officials are blaming higher meat prices.

The magazine Wisconsin Agriculturist reports that in Wisconsin alone, farmers lost $216,973 to rustlers during the first eight months of the year. One Wisconsin sheriff predicted even more cattle thieves would surface if meat prices remained high.

A STROLL IN THE SUN

The latest addition to the animal kingdom at the San Francisco Zoo, a three-month-old polar bear cub, enjoys the sunlight with his mother, Marsha. The bear, born in November, did not leave the den for open air until last week. The cub lives with his mother in a specially built den located inside the polar bear grotto.

Drug Informant's Word Challenged

A narcotics informant who is the chief prosecution witness in a Marin Superior Court drug trial was described yesterday as a homosexual who used heroin and cocaine while working as an undercover operative.

The testimony came from defense witness Victor Sharp, 35, a San Quentin inmate, in the trial of William Reed Lane, 39, of San Francisco.

Sharp said he took part in about 15 marijuana smuggling ventures in 1969 with Wesley L. Schlagel, 26, who later became an informant for the federal narcotics task force in San Francisco.

"I cannot remember any (smuggling venture) involving less than 500 kilos (of marijuana)," Sharp said. A kilo is 2.2 pounds.

The soft-spoken Sharp said the profit from each venture ran between $50,000 and $100,000 and that Schlagel kept most of the money for himself.

Although Deputy Dist. Atty. Girard R. Courteau launched a barrage of objections, defense attorney J. Tony Serra was able to delve into Sharp's impressions of Schlagel's sexual background.

The inmate testified Schlagel made sexual advances toward him; that the two went to a "male sex house" in San Francisco and Schlagel paid $1,000 to a man to perform a sex act with him, and that Schlagel made "pornographic films" in Los Angeles.

Between May and July, 1973, when Schlagel was working on the Lane case, Sharp said he saw the informant use cocaine numerous times and inhale heroin once.

His testimony directly refutes that of Schlagel, who said he was not a homosexual and that he "simulated" using cocaine but did not inhale it.

Sharp, who is in San Quentin awaiting a parole hearing, said Schlagel took him to a house in Oakland last June and showed him 300 kilos of marijuana.

Sharp was arrested the next month for allegedly selling 14 pounds of marijuana to an undercover agent, but, he said, the case was thrown out of federal district court in San Francisco when a judge ruled it was a case of entrapment.

Sharp said Schlagel gave him the marijuana to sell to an undercover agent, then testified against him.

Although the charge was dismissed, Sharp a former prison inmate on parole, was taken to San Quentin while the Adult Authority decides whether to revoke his parole.

Following Sharp's testimony, Lane took the stand in his defense. He denied ever meeting Schlagel at a Tiburon bar last May and showing him $42,500 in cash, as Schlagel had testified.

Lane and three other persons were arrested July 27 in a raid on a three-story bayfront home on Belvedere's Corinthian Island.

Seized were four gallons of hashish oil, a pound of marijuana, an ounce of cocaine and a pistol equipped with an illegal silencer, according to narcotics agents.

Randee Lou Lindersmith, 27, was cleared in the case, while Stephen Mallon Royce, 36, and Carol Millikin, age unknown, are being sought by authorities.

Second Woman Gets Her Wings

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — Another woman has earned Navy pilot's wings. Judith Neuffer of Wooster, Ohio, became the second woman in Navy history Wednesday to become a Navy flyer.

The 25-year-old Ohio State University graduate was assigned to a hurricane hunter squadron in Jacksonville, Fla. She formerly worked in the Navy's San Diego, Calif., computer center. She received her wings in ceremonies at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station.

State's Energy Saving Slipping

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. reported Thursday that its customers have slipped in the drive to conserve energy.

The PG&E told the California Public Utilities Commission that its load was down just 9.6 per cent this month. A 15 per cent drop had been recommended.

"February's effort wasn't as good as January's," a company spokesman said. "We don't quite know why."

The January reduction was 12.5 per cent.

Female Deputy Wins Appeal On Promotion

A female sheriff's deputy yesterday won her appeal for job promotion before the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Riva Richmond, who had been classifed as a Deputy I since 1969, was promoted to Deputy II and Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos was directed to find her a position meeting her qualifications.

Mrs. Richmond had earlier passed necessary examinations for the promotion but was passed over by Mountanos because, he said, his existing vacancies were for patrol work.

Mrs. Richmond, who currently works in the jail, appealed Mountanos' decision and was upheld. Mountanos said yesterday he had passed her over because he will not use women for patrol work.

He said he would review his staffing setup and find a position for her.

The promotion means an increase of about $100-per-month for Mrs. Richmond, who was first employed by the department in 1965 as a clerk-typist.

The sheriff's department has two other female Deputy IIs, one working in the county jail and the other in the juvenile division.

Rustling Grows In Wisconsin

RACINE, Wis. (UPI) — Cattle rustling appears to be on the rise and law enforcement officials are blaming higher meat prices.

The magazine Wisconsin Agriculturist reports that in Wisconsin alone, farmers lost $216,973 to rustlers during the first eight months of the year. One Wisconsin sheriff predicted even more cattle thieves would surface if meat prices remained high.

34-Cent Tax For Service Not Provided

One item that is in the Marin County budget this year, and has been annually since fiscal 1965-66, should be eliminated from next year's budget — because it is meaningless.

Moreover, the tax which finances it is, as the "now generation" says, a "rip-off."

WE REFER to the county structural fire tax.

This tax, at a rate of 34 cents per $100 assessed valuation, raised $270,996 toward the county fire department's budget this year.

It is a "rip-off" because it does not finance structural fire protection, despite its label.

A LITTLE history is in order to understand what has happened.

Marin County maintains a county fire department to protect forests and watershed lands under county jurisdiction, pursuant to state law. It contracts with the State Board of Forestry to protect state-owned forests and watershed lands, for which it receives state funds — $240,000 this fiscal year.

State law requires that a county fire department protect "all lands" in the county which are not under federal, state, city or fire district jurisdiction — and may contract with the state (as Marin does) to protect state lands.

State law does not preclude county fire departments from also providing structural fire protection. But a whole chapter of state code outlines the procedure for setting up fire districts with specific provision for such protection. It is quite clear from a reading of the code that the intent is that a fire district be set up where such protection is needed — as has been done in several areas of Marin County.

FOR SOME YEARS, mayors and councilmen of Marin's cities complained frequently to the board of supervisors that city residents were being double-taxed for fire protection — by both county and city.

To meet this complaint, the supervisors in 1965 adopted a two-tax-rate system for the fire department budget. An amount computed as being for fighting structural fires was separated from other department expenses, and a tax to cover it was assessed against only those areas not within a city or fire district. This is the "structural fire tax."

HOWEVER, the county has not created a fire department trained or equipped to fight structural fires.

This is made plain in the budget itself. In this year's budget document, the county administrator wrote:

"The primary function of the county's fire department is to protect grass, brush, timbers, and other watershed lands. To the extent that its facilities permit, it also responds to structural fire on lands under its jurisdiction."

This was further emphasized by the administrator's recommending against a request by the fire chief for three more fire wardens because the staff "is adequate to provide protection to Marin County's watershed areas." The supervisors concurred in this, refusing the additional men.

In simple, Marin residents outside cities and fire districts are paying a 34-cent tax for a non-existent service. The county fire department is not equipped to fight structural fires, and does not pretend to be.

Growth Control Restrictions Worked Fine In Siberia

What immediately follows is from a book on Siberia I am reading. It was written by a Canadian and published in 1970. It tells of the first trip he and his wife made to the land of the reindeer and other things:

"A first principle was established that the population growth of the threatened cities would have to be arrested arbitrarily. The method chosen was to place stiff controls on the availability of housing. Nobody who was not already a resident. . . could obtain housing without a special permit, and permits were hard to come by. A would-be immigrant had to demonstrate that the city could not do without him — not vice versa." He was writing of the USSR.

WHILE WE ALL have been waiting with baited breath for the $80,000 report of consultants on the general plan for the county, I have often thought of the $1.61 billion or more that the Planning Director von Gundell and crew estimated would be the tag you would have to kick in through 1990. The I-J editorial on the 19th of this month was worth cutting out to carry to the polls on election day: "Who pays for house built on dreams?"

Why in tunket don't Bob Roumiguiere and his fellow committee member on administrator management, le Babtiste, spend some of that "60 to 70 hours a week" he claims he is putting in, march into the data processing department and see that they come up with the answer on the comparative cost to the taxpayer of establishing and operating an intra-county bus service or continuing to use private cars? If they don't get off the dime the increase in the Marin County Transit System tax will not carry. They should get those figures now.

Bob's claim looks sort of funny, when one takes time out to figure just what it means: 60 to 70 hours a week means an average of 65. For a five-day week he would have to work 13 hours a day. For a six-day week he would have to put in 10.8 hours a day. Can he really believe that himself? Can you?

Inflation Most Insidious Form Of Taxation

By RUS WALTON

Inflation is a tax.

It's the most insidious tax of all because it's hidden — it nibbles at your money while you sleep (as well as while you're awake).

Look at it this way. Last year the rate of inflation — the increase in your cost of living — came to 8.8 per cent. That means your dollar is now worth about nine cents less than it was one year ago.

That is a tax of 8.8 cents on every dollar. You pay that tax every time you buy food, or clothes, or medicine; every time you pay the light bill, or the doctor's fee.

That's just last year's tax. Over the past 10 years, the tax of inflation totaled 41 per cent. Politicians tell us we have a 75-cent dollar, based on 1969 as a base of 100. They don't have the guts to admit that the dollar is worth only 42 cents, based on 1946.

INFLATION IS NOT only insidious, it is regressive. It taxes your necessities, and it taxes your taxes.

Politicians use inflation to excuse increases in the cost and tax of government. It's the old chicken-and-the-egg trick and the egg is rotten.

First, politicians cause inflation (because they lack the courage to tax at the same rate they spend). So we end up with fiat money, script, printing press stuff that shrinks every time it's put through the wringer of deficit spending.

Then, those birds bawl about the result of their profligacy and use it to justify even more profligacy . . . and more taxes.

INFLATION IS A TAX on a tax.

Say that you wangle a raise in pay to keep pace with inflation. You pay income taxes on the raise. And, if you move up a bracket or two, you pay even higher taxes on your entire taxable income.

Or take property taxes. Look what inflation has done to them.

Say you and your wife bought a house 15 years ago for $25,000. The tax assessor comes along and tells you that your place is now worth $50,000. You have no intention of selling but some folks down the street did and, based on "comparable" sales, the market value of your house is now set at $50,000.

Well, just a darned minute!

ALMOST 45 PER CENT of that $25,000 increase in "value" — from $25,000 to $50,000 — is due to inflation; pure, unadulterated inflation. It's not that your house is worth that much more; it's just that the dollar is worth that much less — 45 per cent less than the dollar was worth when you bought the place.

What that means is that $11,250 of that $25,000 increase in fair market "value" is due to inflation and $13,750 is due to actual appreciation —because of supply and demand, the new school down the street, or whatever.

That inflation factor should be taken into account in establishing the value of your home. That would work this way: $50,000 (the "market" value) minus $11,250 (the inflation factor) equals $38,750 (the adjusted fair value) . That final figure — $38,750 — should be the base upon which your assessment is levied.

OF COURSE, if you do sell your home for $50,000, then you pay a capital gains tax on the profit — or, you plow the profit into a new home (paying inflated prices and inflated taxes).

But, as long as you and the wife stay put and your house is a home and not a speculator's sport, you should be entitled to a cost-of-inflation adjustment.

Why not? As long as politicians here in Babylon can use inflation as an excuse to increase your tax burden, you should be able to use the same yardstick (inflation) to soften the rap.

I mean, fair's fair!

RICHARD L. STROUT: Comparing Elections

WASHINGTON — The three-week British election campaign is winding up in less time than it takes some American presidential candidates to get their first speech ghost-written.

The British election will have cost around $6 million, whereas the 1972 American election cost, all told, $400 million, according to the Citizens Research Foundation.

Other comparisons:

IN THE 1970 British general election, 72 per cent of the eligible voters will vote; in the 1972 U.S. presidential election, 56 per cent did. One reason for the big difference in turnout is registration. United Kingdom constituencies keep up-to-date voter lists; U.S. registration is often complicated and reformers now propose postcard registration.

As to the number of legislators elected, the House of Commons has 636 seats; the House of Representatives, 435.

How about the upper house? Britain's House of Lords of 800-900 members is not elected; the U.S. Senate has 100 members, one-third elected each two years for six-year terms.

A British member of parliament is paid about $10,350, a congressman, $42,500.

There is no prescribed date for elections in the United Kingdom; the maximum length of a Parliament is five years, but it may be dissolved at any time. The United States has fixed terms: four years for president, six for a sanator, two for a representative.

STRICT REGULATIONS limit maximum expenditures in the United Kingdom (subject to election annulment if the winner transgresses); they work out to around $3,000. In the United States the sky's the limit.

British parties get specific free broadcasting time and may not buy time. In the United States most radio and TV time is purchased, and is a major cost of election.

The British campaign really is only three weeks long. The prime minister announced Feb. 7 that he had advised the queen to dissolve Parliament, and this was done next day, with elections summoned Feb. 28. The new Parliament meets March 6 to elect a speaker; and the state opening occurs March 12.

How long is an American presidential election campaign? Candidates for 1976 are campaigning already.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Destruction Of Signs Not Juvenile Vandalism

Commenting on your Feb. 26 article on campaign sign vandalism, ours was one of the many homes whose signs and property were defaced with spray paint. The concerted use of spray paint was used on signs for only three of the four candidates running for council seats (i.e., Hael, Shawn and Weingarth). My husband and I, along with other interested residents, drove all over Corte Madera and saw no evidence of spray paint vandlism on any signs but those three candidates mentioned above.

It would appear that the tearing down of signs stated in your article was the method used against the fourth candidate, Kostelic, which would seem to rule out, in my opinion, simple juvenile vandalism and reinforce speculation of divided political disagreement.

As a fairly new resident of Corte Madera I am very disturbed that so much emotion over any one issue or candidate(s) could generate into violent irresponsible action by its residents. Democracy is based on the premise that we respect our neighbor's opinion and defend his right to so state it, and abide by the resultant will of the majority. Let us all remember that!

Conservatives Keep Checkbooks Closed

I have come to feel that America will not be preserved to the end of this century as a free nation under God, unless many more honest conservatives are elected to federal positions. But, if the good, God-loving people of this area do not back up solid beliefs with their check books, it may be useless for me to continue campaigning for U.S. representative. In short, I can't prevent the conservatives from willfully leaving the world a much less perfect place for their children.

Ervin Committee Votes On Public Financing

Ever wonder who your real friends are in Washington? The Senate Watergate hearings on national television afforded us a chance to form some definite impressions of those senators on the panel. To those of us who abhor the activities which were under examination, it was easy to consider most or all of these select senators as heroes or as legislators to be admired and respected.

However, in a recent report from Common Cause, the citizens group which represents a wide cross-section of the nation, we get a very different impression of the men on the select committe. In five separate votes on public financing of national elections, here is how these senators voted on one of the first major steps to prevent a recurrence of the Watergate and related scandals: Sen. Lowell Weicker (Conn.): 5 nays; Sen. Edward Gurney (Fla.): 4 not voting, 1 nay; Sen. Herman Talmadge (Ga.): 5 nays; Sen. Howard Baker (Tenn.): 2 nays, 3 not voting; Sen. Sam Ervin (N.C.): 5 nays; Sen. Daniel Inouye (Hawaii): 4 years, 1 not voting, and Sen. Joseph Montoya (N.M.): 5 yeas.

Allardt Survey Of Canal Defended

This letter is in response to your Feb. 9 editorial titled "102-year-old Errors Cloud Canal Titles," which ws brought to my attention by one of your readers.

I found your article generally lacking in factual content which, from my experience, is characteristic of the news media and not too disturbing, particularly when it is editorial opinion. What does disturb me, and is the point of this letter, Mr. Craemer, is your repeated and completely false accusation that the original survey of the San Rafael Canal was "faulty and erroneous."

As a licensed land surveyor I feel that I cannot remain silent while you publicly attack the work and reputaton of George F. Allardt, who, in my opinion, was one of the great surveyors who wandered into California history. . .

In the past 20 years or so I have had occasion to retrace certain portions of the Allardt survey in Marin County and have found about 35 original stakes and granite monuments, enough to get an idea of the accuracy of the Allardt survey. Admittedly I have found apparent mistakes, and systematic errors in the field work of the Allardt surve but nothing of the magnitude you suggest in your editorial. As a matter of fact, Allardt's survey of the San Rafael slough and inner marsh line fits existing monumentation remarkably well. . .

If it is necessary to place the blame for the present title problems along the San Rafael Canal, Mr. Craemer, lets not unjustly accuse Allardt. . . If property lines along the Canal had been adheared to, as Alardt surveyed and mapped the, the present "mess", as you call it, would not in all probability exist.

Lovers of good old-fashioned horse trading can hardly wait until the Russians need some of our wheat again.

There's a controversy in the Maryland legislature over a bill to allow the Ten Commandments to be read in schools. As a compromise, maybe five or six of them could be read.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Russians Stick To Familiar Lines As Arms Talks Open

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Russians are tough, shrewd negotiators. We need to bear that in mind as the second round of the nuclear arms control talks get under way in Geneva.

There is no reason to be surprised or dismayed that for openers the Russians are doing their best to put the United States totally on the defensive. They are doing this by laying down an advance barrage of arguments suggesting that any time the United States builds a submarine or improves a missile, that's bad; and that any time the Soviet Union does the same, that promotes world peace.

We know that this is standard Communist negotiating tactics, and we know that any country's first negotiating position is not its last.

But it would be well to be aware of what the Russians are up to and to see how they are going about it, so that as a people we will be neither taken in by them nor put off by superficial arguments.

COMMUNIST TECHNIQUE varies little, probably because it has been so often successful. They defend anything they do in what they deem to be in their own national interest as peace-loving, but when another nation does the same thing its action is condemned as warlike.

This is exactly the way the Russians are beginning the nuclear arms dialogue. On the eve of the first session, Pravda sharply attacked Sec. of Defense James Schlesinger for proposing that the United States modernize and improve the American missile force. This, despite the fact that for two years since the first SALT agreement the Russians have been steadily pushing forward their buildup of land-based and submarine missiles.

There it is. It is all right for the Soviet Union to expand and improve its strategic missile force, but all wrong for the United States to respond. Maybe they don't mean it, maybe they don't believe it, but they keep on saying it in the hope that others will believe it.

FROM THE PRAVDA article it is clear that the Russians not only do not want the United States to modernize its missile strength but, more than that, they don't want U.S. officials, like what Secretary Schlesinger is doing, to point out the danger of future Soviet strategic superiority. They brand such talk as "contradicting the spirit of detente" and not very nice.

Soviet officials, of course, don't have to talk about what they may see as the danger of an American strategic superiority. They can act without talking because a dictatorship doesn't have to make its decisions in public as democracies do in appropriating and spending money.

Pravda used the familiar tactic at another point in its article. It described Schlesinger's request to Congress for new research and development funds as irresponsible and shortsighted "clamor to whip up the arms race." But when earlier the Kremlin greatly expanded its nuclear research and development without any "clamor," that of course was all right.

This is nothing new, but because it is repetitious does not reduce the need to be alert to such negotiating tactics.

THE COMMUNISTS have always argued that for them to commit an act of aggression is an act of peace, but to defend against aggression is an act of war.

Example: It is an act of peace to send Russian tanks into Hungary and an act of aggression for the Hungarians to resist them! The same for the Czech invasion.

I am reminded by the insight which Adlai Stevenson contributed after his first trip to the Soviet Union. He described Soviet policy in this sentence: "What's theirs is theirs and what's ours is up for grabs." You can't improve on that.

Let it be clear that the Russians are violating no agreement by rushing ahead with new strategic missile production. They have moved much faster and farther than U.S. officials thought they would when SALT I was signed. If we don't find a way to control the nuclear arms race at a reduced level, SALT II will be an empty and dangerous exercise.

Over-Zealous Religious Group Brings Call For Tough Ordinance

In the next few weeks, the Mill Valley City Council will debate a proposed ordinance which would mean that before any Girl Scouts sell cookies, before any church holds a basement bazaar, or before any Disabled American Veteran passes out a poppy, their leaders will have to file a two or three-page form with the city and pay a $10 permit fee.

The permit would be good only for six months. Failure to file for one would mean that the organization would be subject to a $100 fine for each day on which it solicited donations or tried to sell its wares without a permit.

The council came very close at its last meeting to holding first reading on this ordinance. But because of one or two objections from the audience and from Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker, they postponed the issue to give the Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls and others a chance to speak on the proposal.

IT APPEARS that the council is not opposed to cookies, calendars, poppies, or junktique sales at churches. The group the ordinance is aimed at is a black religious organization, councilmen noted the first time that the subject of the ordinance came up. This group has been stopping people in downtown Mill Valley for weeks and trying to sell copies of its official newspaper for $2 each. According to some reports at the council meeting, the salesmen follow shoppers down the street insisting that they buy papers or give contributions to the organization's education fund.

Apparently councilmen have received phone calls from irritated residents. They then asked the city attorney to write an ordinance to control the situation. City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said that if they want one charitable group to file for a permit, they must ask all groups to do so.

TIBURON RESIDENTS have been complaining about boaters who empty filled plastic bags from portable boat toilets in the downtown railroad yard. Fred J. Buscher of the old Tiburon area says that at one old fig tree in the yard "a person could get typhoid on a warm day."

A troubled boat owner explains that the crisis in effluvia stems from a state requirement that new boats are to be equipped with portable toilets when sold so as to stop the flushing of sewage into open water. But the state did not arrange for the building of facilities on shore to process the products of the portables. This woman's husband siphons the contents of his boat toilet into another container, takes it to the harbormaster's bathroom, and flushes it down the toilet.

Workload On General Plan Forces Panel To Revise Hearing Schedule

San Rafael's preliminary general plan requires such extensive rewriting and editing that a schedule of hearings set to review the document must be revised, the San Rafael Planning Commission has decided.

"We saw no way in view of the amount of work it's taking to continue on the original schedule," reported commissioner John A. Starkweather yesterday.

He said the first two chapters of the plan are in need of so much refinement that the agency decided Wednesday night to continue review of them on Tuesday and Thursday, days on which the commission was originally scheduled to consider the plan's third chapter.

He noted that the commission on Feb. 13 embarked on a series of 13 meetings over three months to review the plan.

Result of the shift is that chapter three, or "Housing and the Residential Environment," will not be reviewed until 8 p.m. March 19, Starkweather said.

The commission Wednesday night decided to revise the hearing schedule after it failed to complete review and editing of the document's "natural environment" chapter after four hours of work.

Starkweather said that the agency also has not yet completed revision of the document's initial chapter, due to the amount of revision required.

He said that the commission is in accord with the general intent and policies proposed in the first two chapters of the document, but has found that "it's going to take more rewriting than we originally thought . . . extensive rewriting."

Starkweather cited as an example of the plan's ambiguity that the word "preserve" is often used with varying intent and meaning. Commissioners last night also decided to divide the second chapter of the document into two sections - one on open space, the other on natural hazards - in an attempt to improve organization of material presented.

Starkweather noted that Wednesday's meeting marked the third this week for San Rafael planning commissioners, who held a public hearing on the plan on Monday and discussed regular city business on Tuesday.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Syria figures her 1973 war losses in the billions of dollars.

She is under intense pressure not only by the super-powers but by Egypt as well to reach agreement with Israel on a disengagement of forces on the Golan Heights.

But despite this, and despite whatever early successes may be achieved by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in his shuttle trips between Damascus and Jerusalem, final agreement may be hard to come by.

THERE ARE SEVERAL reasons for it.

Economically, the Golan Heights have little value, comprising some 500 square miles of land suitable for little more than olive trees and sheep grazing. But they are a matter of national pride to the Syrians who are determined to win them back.

Syria lost territory in the 1973 fighting. Egypt showed some gains and thus could claim at least a moral victory.

Syrian President Hafez Assad insists that disengagement must be only the first step in an Israeli withdrawal. A further condition is the return of 170,000 refugees driven, according to the Syrians, from the heights in the fighting of 1967 and 1973.

SYRIA SPENDS between a quarter and a half of her national budget on military outlays, but despite the heavy burden the Syrian people appear to support the government's determination to regain the lost territory. In some ways the country is in better shape now to fight than it was at the outbreak of the October, 1973, war.

President Assad speaks with considerably less authority than Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who can reach his own decisions and make them stick. Assad rules over an uncertain coalition of members of his own Baathist party, Socialists, Communists and Nasserites.

A further contrast lies in economic development plans of the two countries.

Egypt is counting heavily upon western investment to help restore the Suez canal to use, in reconstruction of cities in the canal zone and resettlement of the Sinai.

Kuwait is contributing some $600 million.

Saudi Arabia has pledged $2.2 billion.

Abu Dhabi has promised to finance a new oil refinery.

ALTHOUGH ISRAELI bombing heavily damaged Syria's main refinery at Homs and her Mediterranean tanker terminals at Banias and Tartus, she scarcely has felt the energy shortage. A rationing program was abandoned after two weeks.

Her only big western loan is $73 million from the U.S. Export-Import Bank to develop farmland reclaimed by the $300 million dam built with Russian aid and inaugurated last year. It is the first to tame the waters of the Euphrates River.

Prison Tomcat Gets Physical

MACLESTER, Okla. (UPI) — "Canteen Tom," a cat confined within the walls of the Oklahoma State Penitentiary for the last six years, underwent a physical examination Thursday to see if he is healthy enough for parole.

Canteen Tom, born inside the prison July 25, 1968, is missing half his teeth and half of one ear because of various fights within the prison.

A prisoner wrote a letter to UPI in which he asked for someone to volunteer to give Tom a home and the medical attention he needs. The letter listed some of the qualifications Tom would need for a home, including one with no small children, since prison life has made the cat tough and independent. Since the letter was published, the prison has been deluged with offers for Tom.

Democrats Drop Quota System

ROBERT STRAUSS
Watergate suit settled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats buried the quota system which had made a shambles of their 1972 national convention and turned their attention today to new ways to nominate a candidate for vice president.

And Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss announced that the national committee had agreed to settle out of court for $775,000 its $6.4 million civil damage suit against the Committee To Reelect the President as a result of the Watergate breakin.

Under the agreement the Committee to Reelect the President would drop its counter suits against the Democrats.

The Democratic executive committee yesterday unanimously killed for the 1976 convention, the delegate selection quota system for blacks, women and the young, which created a chaotic power struggle at the 1972 convention in Chicago.

The manner in which Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri was chosen and then dumped as the running mate for Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota is considered the major factor in the Democratic debacle two years ago.

A commission headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, who knows from experience what its like to be hand-picked by number one, was named to select a better method. It decided to recommend to the Democratic National Committee, meeting here today, to give the presidential candidate an option: delay the selection of a running mate for 48 hours after the top of the ticket is chosen (which would be 24 more hours than he now has) or leave the nomination to a mini-convention meeting 30 days later.

The commission rejected a suggestion by Former Gov. Endicott Peabody of Massachusetts who insisted that the vice presidential selection be limited to those who actually campaigned for it.

Democratic politicans condemned the idea of mounting a full-scale primary campaign for vice president as too much of a burden for man or party.

Leader Sees Ethiopian Revolt End

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — Ethiopia's new prime minister expressed confidence today he could end a four-day armed forces revolt that has threatened the authority of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Prime Minister Endalkachew Mokennen said troops would remain in control of the capital and the northern city of Asmara for the time being while he formed a new government.

Army, navy and air force troops kept their tight grip on Ethiopia despite the emperor's decision to name a new prime minister and boost armed forces pay.

Even as the 46-year-old premier spoke at a news conference, several thousand students marched past his office chanting "Go to hell, go to hell." They carried placards calling for his ouster, new political parties, freedom of the press and land for the poor.

"My information is that most segments of the country—including the armed forces—are prepared to give me a chance to govern," Mokennen said.

"I don't expect love at first sight. It will take time to restore confidence. If I am given calm, I can do the job."

As for the armed forces, Mokennen said, "I'm sure it will not be too long before they go back to barracks. Their presence at the moment is required. They have to keep law and order."

Mokennen, communications minister in the previous government, said "four or five" ministers in the cabinet which resigned Wednesday had been taken into detention by the army "but they are well" and "their release can be expected soon."

Diplomatic sources said the 81-year-old emperor, ruler of the African kingdom for more than a half-century, seemed certain to stay in power, but his almost absolute authority has been seriously eroded.

A Navy Barge For Sea Life

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A surplus 100-foot Navy barge has been sunk in 75 feet of water a mile southwest of Redondo Beach to enhance sea life and improve fishing on a man-made reef already there, state fish and game officials said today.

The barge was towed from the Long Beach Navy Yard to the reef site and divers from the Department of Fish and Game went aboard and opened sinking valves.

Aside from the barge, which sank on its side and will have to be righted later, the reef is composed of a series of four rock piles covering a 48,000 square foot area. The site has been marked with buoys for the benefit of fishermen.

MRS. DON Starr breeds registered Welsh ponies at her home in Ross with the help of her son Aubrey, 12, who does the barn work. Prized for their gentleness, spirit and strength, Welsh ponies compete in Western, English, jumping and harness horse show classes.

ROSS WOMAN'S PROJECTS

Horsemanship Art Practiced

By PAT BALMES

"I enjoy finding the right pony for the right family," said Carolyn Starr of Ross, who is Marin's only breeder of registered Welsh ponies.

Mrs. Don Starr, who founded the Ross 4-H Club horse project in 1971, has located ponies for many Ross children.

For the past two years she has trained 13 youngsters to care for their ponies properly.

When the Starrs bought their modern home on a wooded acre in Ross in 1969, they were delighted that the property included a large old carriage house, part of the former Lombardi Estate, which bordered on the wilderness of the watershed district.

"The opportunity had presented itself to again know the joys of horsemanship," said Mrs. Starr, who had ridden as a youngster in El Cajon and now wanted to share the fun with her husband and sons, Aubrey, 12, and Forrest, 7.

SHE BOUGHT Lady, a Welsh mare, for her boys and began to ride the big poney too when she discovered it could keep up with anv horse. The Welsh pony, with its gentle nature, strength and spirit served every family member, she said.

Even Don Starr, a safety expert for the state of California, enjoys hitching the pony to a roadster or carriage for a Sunday drive around Ross, down Lagunitas Road to the post office or up to Phoenix Lake Park.

Mrs. Starr followed the Los Altos Hunt on her pony, Rhythm Sue, when the colorful drag chase galloped over the Lafranchi and Gallagher ranches in Nicasio in October.

The pony loved every minute of the four and a half hour fast pace up and down the Nicasio hills. She kept up with the big hunters and was ready for more when the day's run was over, according to Mrs. Starr.

These purebred ponies are in great demand as hunters in England and eastern United States for light-weight adults and youngsters, but in many Western states little is known of their prodigious strength and versatile ability, she said.

Mrs. Starr believes the ponies are safe. Her boys ride bareback to Phoenix Lake, so there would be no danger of being thrown and dragged by a foot caught in a stirrup. If anything happened, the ponies would run right home, she said.

"It is nice for a child to come home after a busy school day and be able to get out alone and be with his pony," the mother said.

LIKE MOST of the breeders in the Welsh Pony Association of California the Starrs praise ponies as a hobby. Presently the tiny breeding program boasts two performance ponies, a 2-year-old and a foal.

"What a surprise it was to the boys on that morning they found the new born foal," she said.

Aubrey cleans the stable twice a day, filling 30-gallon plastic garbage cans with manure, which Ross gardeners take to fertilize their gardens. Mrs. Starr believes horsemen are becoming better stable managers. She is anxious to reduce community friction about keeping horses.

Three years ago when she wanted Aubrey, then 9, to join the 4-H to learn horse care, Mrs. Starr found the nearest horse oriented club had mostly teen-age girl members. Mrs. Starr, with her husband and Mrs. Rodney Roberts of Ross, launched a new 4-H club for younger children, requiring membership be half boys and half girls.

She taught the 13 youngsters horse health and care, stable management, safety and courtesy, working on good community relations such as refraining from riding on lawns or down the middle of the street which would block traffic.

Her 1972-73 schedule included two trips to the Grand National Horse Show at the Cow Palace, a tour of the San Francisco Mounted Police Stables, a demonstration on poison plants, a tour of University of California at Davis Large Animal Hospital and a trip to the United States Ranger Morgan Breeding Farm at Point Reyes National Seashore, a trail ride through the water district, pony driving lessons at Mrs. Roy Stradan's Welsh pony stables in Elk Grove and visits to veterinarian clinics and hospitals, she said.

"ANYONE THINKING of buying a pony for their child should have a vet check it for medical problems before buying," she said, adding that horsemen of Marin are indebted to veterinarians and shoers.

When Carolyn Starr went to San Diego County in 1950, the teen-ager's interests were horses, modeling and music. A former cover girl, Shakespearean actress, beauty contest winner and singer with popular and Western bands, she maintains that her "greatest thrill was opening the Lions Club Horse Show in El Cajon Valley when I was 16 by riding in on the California State palomino champion stallion, Titanic."

The official Lions Club hostess and model, she received its four-year scholarship to study dramatics at San Diego State College.

The following years were filled with "show business type jobs," including public relations work for three television stations, KFSD, KRON and KVLR-TV, she said.

In 1960 she came to the Bay Area and married.

This year the busy mother gave up her 4-H leadership to devote her time to music and politics. A lyric soprano, she studies with Madame Bella Resek of Mill Valley.

A former alternate to the Marin County Democratic Central Committee and area chairman for Ross and Mill Valley in four major political campaigns, she is now volunteering to help with Senator Mervyn Dymally's campaign to become lieutenant governor, because of her interest in women's rights.

Mrs. Starr will still take time to raise ponies, she said, "because working with animals outdoors helps unite man with nature."

VINCENT PRICE
Noted art collector

Noted actor and art collector Vincent Price will speak at the Marin A.M. series on March 15 on "The Enjoyment of Great Art."

Price will speak at 10:30 a.m. at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

Born in St. Louis, Mo., Price aspired to become a teacher and collector of art, and he purchased a Rembrandt etching when he was 12. He went on to Yale University to major in art and continued studies at London University while working toward a master's degree. There he tried out for a theatrical part on a lark and got it.

He was launched on a stage career, coming back to the United States in the London production of "Victoria Regina," playing Prince Consort Albert opposite Helen Hayes. His long film and television career followed.

After an interview on Edward R. Murrow's Person-to-Person television show, Price became known for his extensive art collection and knowledge of art.

He has written several books on art, and will autograph his latest, "Vincent Price Treasury of American Art," in the lobby of the theater before and after the lecture.

Price now does an art column for the Sunday Chicago Tribune and is a member of the board of the Archives of American Art, on the National Committee for the Whitney Museum of American Art, on the Art Council of the University of California and is a member of the Royal Academy of Arts in England.

ROSE McMAHON
April wedding set

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. McMahon of Novato have announced the engagement of their daughter Rose Marie McMahon to Malcom Hitchcock of Novato.

The couple have set an April 6 wedding at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Rose Marie is the sister of Kay Brunt and the granddaughter of Mrs. Anna Walter of Novato and Mr. and Mrs. Howard McMahon of Eau Claire, Wis.

The bride-elect was graduated from Terra Linda High School, the College of Marin and Sonoma State College.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hitchcock of Clarksdale, Miss., and the brother of Alton Hitchcock of Los Angeles, Beverly Hitchcock of Santa Ana and Mrs. Bill Moore of Greensville, Miss.

He was graduated from Clarksdale High School and attended the College of Marin.

Retired Flight Leader Of Marin Group

For the first time the Marin County Chapter of the Retired Officers Association has a woman as its president, former Air Force Flight nurse, Lt. Col. (ret.) Madeline McGinnis of Novato.

Colonel McGinnis had many tours of duty during her 26 years of nursing service, including duty in Japan and England during World War II, in Germany in 1955-1957 and temporary duty in Hawaii and Alaska.

She helped set up specifications for the medical equipment for the Nightingale, the military aircraft, a DC-9, used for the transfer of injured military men. A special chair was put into the plane for the injured which was called "the McGinnis Chair."

Her last tour of duty before retiring in 1970 was chief of the department of nursing at Hamilton Air Force Base.

She said she has been fascinated with flying since the days of Charles Lindberg and Billy Mitchell. She stressed that in the military service women now receive the same pay as men with equivalent rank.

Colonel McGinnis said she not only was on aircraft, but also served on the ships Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth and the Fred C. Ainsworth. She also was a recruiting officer for three years.

The retired colonel has many hobbies to keep her busy. They include cooking, gardening, reading and collecting many favorite items. Among her collections are 14 miniature of the planes on which she traveled, including the smallest, an L20.

She also takes courses at Indian Valley Colleges in philosophy and anthropology, and is second vice president of the Novato Republican Women's Club.

Marin Women

LT. COL. MADELINE McGINNIS, first woman president of the Marin Chapter of the Retired Officers Association, shows a replica of The Nightingale, for which she helped to set up specifications to transfer injured military men.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Vietnamese Children Fathered By Americans Need Adoption

DEAR HELEN:

You mentioned the need for adoptive parents of transracial and handicapped older children. There are still many half-American children left behind in Vietnam. The needs are most urgent for the ones who were fathered by black Americans and, to a lesser degree, by white Americans. In the event of a Communist takeover, these "mixtures" would be the first to be considered expendable.

Denver, Colo., 80211

Holt Adoption Program,
P.O. Box 2420,
Eugene, Ore., 97402

International Social Services,
345 East 46th St.,
New York, N.Y., 10017

I must point out that adoptive parents face a long wait and much red tape, but every minute is worth it. Our little Vietnamese son came to us after a year and a half of delay. One would never guess that only a year ago he arrived as a scared, skinny, undernourished, scabious youngster who could not even wear a pair of shoes because of deep wounds on his feet and ankles. He has been welcomed into our home and our community and is loved by everyone who meets him. How lucky and blessed we are to have him join our family. — MRS. L.O.L.

DEAR HELEN:

Answering the wife who can't bear the thought of moving from her lovely home and good job, I was in the same boat.

After 15 years of marriage, we built our dream house. We lived near our families, I had a successful profession. Our many friends insured an active social life.

You guessed it: My husband was offered a transfer and promotion —clear across the country.

I was brought up in the "whither thou goest" tradition, but I'm afraid I was still hateful and uncooperative when we made the move.

And the next five years turned out to be the most delightful I have ever spent! We discovered a whole new world of people, places and things. I was able to continue in my profession, but with better pay. While we didn't get another dream home, we were well-housed.

I wouldn't give anything for the experiences our move made possible. We have moved again since. I hated to go as much the second time, but I've learned there's much fun in the new. — BEEN THERE

DEAR HELEN:

I'm just 21, but I side with "Mid Lib" who says people over 50 get the short end of the stick.

I live in a scientific city, and know many persons my father's age who have been laid off to save on retirement and pension payments. Last year, the atomic installation here dropped close to 2,000 people because of cutbacks. Amazingly enough, this year many of those jobs were recreated, and men ranging in age from 25 to 40 were hired. The elders remained out —and unwanted.

Companies can save up to 50 per cent of pension pay if they lay off men before age 65, even though these persons have worked faithfully for 20 or 30 years. That's tempting. These people are alert and in tune — just born too soon. — KATY

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Notices To Descendants Of Settlers

Descendants of 19th Century San Rafael settlers have been asked by the San Rafael Centennial Committee to register at the centennial office at San Rafael City Hall so that they may be invited to the champagne reception for pioneer families hosted by the San Rafael Improvement Club.

"We don't want to miss anyone," explained Judge Thomas F. Keating, chairman of the centennial committee.

The reception will be held May 23 at 7 p.m. at the Improvement Club in San Rafael, with three club members descended from old San Rafael families, Misses Maude Williams, Doris Eden and Helen Sheehy, especially honored, according to Mrs. Ragnar Thaning, club president. After the reception, guests will attend the musical "Jubilee" at San Rafael High School.

The club in cooperation with Mrs. Elsie P. Mazzini of San Rafael, president of the Marin County Historical Society, is making up the guest list for the reception.

Other officers of the Bargain Box Auxiliary are Mrs. R. P. DeMartini, vice president; Mrs. George F. Lester, secretary; Miss Arlynne Hawkins, treasurer; Paul Wilson, membership; Mrs. Thomas Chalmers, sunshine chairman; and Mrs. R. O. Foster, ways and means chairman.

Lockets Right On

If you're looking for a jewelry gift for a pint or medium sized lass, you'll be right on target by picking a locket. The love of lockets never has gone out of style. Chains dangle them. They pin on, wrap on bracelets and ring fingers.

ON BEING BLACK

'Harlem Heyday' Provides Background Into History

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

SALT LAKE CITY — "I ain't never done nothin' to noooobody..." wails the young black singer, almost unbelievably capturing the flavor and feeling of the late Burt Williams' song as it was presented in vaudeville in the '20s and '30s. Unknown to most black youngsters today, those were the years when the black performer was the toast of Broadway, when every town on the TOBA Circuit had a theater where the top tunes of the day were played — "Walk Right In," "Ballin' the Jack," "There'll Be Some Changes Made" and "Basin Street Blues," to name a few, all written by black.

"Harlem Heyday" is a two-act musical review of black nostalgia (performed by Voices, Inc., New York) presented in several cities across the country during national Black History Week. It gave black youngsters a much needed opportunity to see, hear and, more importantly, feel a portion of their history.

In addition to the music and dances of the day, material of the vaudeville comedy teams of Miller and Lyle, Eddie and George and Butter Beans and Suzy was affectionately "exhumed" for the production.

THE CONTEMPORARY black audience's ability to appreciate this particular comedy is surely an indication of growth and increased sense of racial security. For this early vaudeville comedy solidified stereotypes of black people. They depicted the strong, overpowering, bodacious, fearless, enduring black woman and in contrast the whining, shiftless, lazy black male. Suzy was constantly and loudly on Butter Beans' "case" to get a job. He went to incredible lengths to remain "happily" unemployed.

These scenarios were tremendously funny, particularly to whites. The tragedy is, they were the only images of blacks presented. We are still living down these stereotypes, but we can appreciate these old comedy routines for what they are, knowing they are not all-encompassing pictures of the black society.

Contemporary black critics still aren't happy with today's television and film stereotypes. Seems we've gone from one extreme to the other. We have Candy (Chocolate) Bar — a karate-chopping, see-through-blouse-wearing female undercover agent; Florida — Maude's ex-maid, and Super-Buck — the black male who goes around beating up white folks and seducing white women. Leads one to wonder which days are the good old days.

Whichever roles contemporary blacks are buying, "Harlem Heyday" (with choral arrangements by Ben Carter and Ron Williams) is a production that all black youngsters should see. They'll find black was beautiful and salable 50 years ago.

Even though another stereotype — "All blacks can sing and dance" — may have been reinforced during that era, some blacks could sing and dance, for real. The Harlem heydays are gone — but not forgotten.

The Omega Speedmaster Professional.

As worn on Earth.
OMEGA
As worn on the Moon.

The Omega Speedmaster Professional

This is the watch chosen by NASA to be strapped to the wrist of all U. S. Astronauts. The only watch to be flight-qualified for all manned space missions. The watch that's been to the moon as many times as men have been there.
It's also the watch worn by a growing number of professionals on Earth—TV Producers' Sportsmen, Engineers, Military Men—people to whom time is more than just a casual concern.
The only way you can tell an Astronaut's Speedmaster from an Earthman's Speedmaster is by the band. The Astronaut's is larger, to fit around the bulky sleeve of his spacesuit.
Because it can survive violent shaking and vibrations, your Speedmaster will give you the right time even when you're sky-diving, skiing or auto racing. Or when you swing a tennis racket, throw a football or hit a golf ball.
And because the Speedmaster can tolerate the freezing cold and searing heat of space and the moon, and because it's water-resistant, you can take it anywhere on Earth —from the poles to the equator.
The Omega Speedmaster Professional. The watch that lives up to its name.

GREET GUESTS — David Woo and his wife, Gail, of the Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate One, greet guests Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Shaffer. The new owners of the restaurant have slanted their menu toward Mandarin and South Sea dishes.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Patrons At Lin Fa Gardens Will Find Some Changes Made

If you haven't visited Lin Fa Gardens at Northgate One recently, you'll find some changes have been made.

Not in the decor — that's still much the same as when Ethel Barrie had it. But new owners David and Gail Woo have an entirely different menu, slanted toward Mandarin and South Seas dishes. Oh, there is a special Cantonese dinner plate and three sets of dinners for two or more, but your best bet, as in all Chinese restaurants, is in the a la carte department.

Many Americans are short on know-how in ordering this way, but the Lin Fa menu reduces a la carte dishes to three simple groups: Main dishes, chow yuk (vegetables blended with pork) and rice and noodles. Almost anyone can come out with a good balance and variety. If you get stuck just ask the waiter.

Or if you're simply going along for the ride with a group of Chinese food fans, turn to the back of the menu. There you'll find American-style dinners with the entrees more familiar to your taste buds. I only mention this in passing, for it has always seemed to me that the main purpose in going to any restaurant is to enjoy its specialized food attractions. However, they are there if you want them: Filet mignon, New York steak, southern fried chicken and a number of others.

That back page also offers a complete Tahitian feast — if you can get 35 people together to share it with you.

At mid-day, Lin Fa has a special Chinese plate lunch at $2.25 and another at $2.75, as well as several a la carte Chinese dishes. There is also a fine American menu, with soups, salads, sandwiches, popular entrees, omelets and desserts.

The lounge is now offering (Tuesdays through Saturdays), the personal touch and charm of organist Bob Stewart at the Baldwin. Many of his fans have followed him to the Lin Fa.

The lounge now also has a small dance floor and this is put to good use, for Bob's repertory can be tapped for some excellent rhythm tunes.

Young David Woo, the quiet, unassuming man behind all this, is one of those individuals capable of a tremendous amount of personal effort and production without seeming to show it. He and wife Gail work seven days a week and commute from Oakland. Practically their entire life is dedicated to making this project go over in a big way.

He's been in the restaurant business since he was 14, working in and operating both western and Chinese establishments throughout the Bay Area.

THERE ARE NEW DISHES to be had at the Normandie French Restaurant on the San Rafael Miracle Mile.

Chef and co-owner Roger Minhondo's Belgian hare is already a favorite on Saturday nights. Other additions are canard au citron (roast duckling with a sweet and sour, orange and lemon sauce) and veal a la creme. In the seafood department, besides the Normandie's popular bouillabaise, you will soon find fresh salmon.

A NEAR-AT-HAND restaurant, if you are short on gasoline, is the Four-Sixty-Four Magnolia in Larkspur. This is the little place that is continually changing its menu to keep you interested in going back.

To save you phoning to find out what's cooking this weekend, you have four entree choices tonight and tomorrow night: Leg of lamb with garlic bearnaise; filet of sole stuffed with crab, topped with a cream sauce; chicken curry with chutney, avocado, bananas, raisins and currants soaked in wine, pineappel, green onion and a few other things; and manicotti with a four-cheese stuffing and served with a mushroom cheese sauce.

For Saturday and Sunday brunch are these choices: Eggs Benedict, eggs Lorraine, eggs Florentine, quiches, omelets and lunch specials. Order with orange juice or champagne.

I guess you'll have to phone anyway — to make a reservation.

SKIP SOMMER of Sommer-Ryan Enterprises, since selling out the Lark Creek Inn restaurant business in Larkspur to the Gottis, may not be quite ready to try his hand at another such project — but at least he's headed in that general direction.

His latest venture — the Old

West Antiques, General Merchandise and Saloon Lunch Arcade in San Anselmo (where the Home Market was located for 47 years) — includes a restaurant-delicatessen. I wouldn't have put it past Skip to decide to operate it himself — but he's not. He's leased it to Conrad and Jo Ann Knudsen of San Anselmo, who will call it Knudsen's Deli.

Conrad started in the food business as a youngster in his father's meat market in Omaha, which made its own sausages and lunch meats. Later he went into a barbecue restaurant with a brother and then ventured into a sandwich and ice cream shop in San Francisco with another brother. And this will also be a family business, for wife Jo Ann and their three children will be working with him.

Jo Ann will make salads, sandwiches, soups, cheesecakes and a special chili lunch for which the Knudsens have become famous in past ventures.

Both sitdown and take-out service will be rendered (the deli seats about 50) and hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays. Later hours may be observed later.

I've been given three possible opening dates - March 9, 10 or at the latest the 15th. Knudsen's Deli will have two entrances — one from the arcade itself at 411 San Anselmo Avenue and another from the parking lot on Pine Street.

Incidentally, this is the same place that was listed in our recent Dining and Wining Guide as the Calico Pantry Delicatessen, the name was originally assigned to it.

Spy Officers' Promotions Blocked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, has stalled the promotions of at least six high ranking officers involved in military spying on the White House, unauthorized bombing in Southeast Asia and other recent scandals.

Hughes, a liberal member of the Armed Services Committee, announced he would fight promotions for two Air Force generals, and word he had temporarily blocked others until further investigations are finished trickled out from a variety of Senate sources late yesterday afternoon.

Two of the officers are direct subordinates of Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The blocked officers were named on promotion rosters bearing several hundred other nominations, all of which are stalled for the time being.

There was some concern that Hughes' action could preciptate a major liberal-conservative battle either in the committee or on the floor.

The aides to Moorer are Navy Capt. Arthur Knoizen and Air Force Col. Bennie Davis, both named as officers who knew of the military spying scheme by yeoman Charles Radford, the sailor-stenographer who purloined White House papers of Henry Kissinger and Gen. Alexander Haig.

The papers were passed on to Moorer through Radford's boss, and Radford publicly accused Knoizen of knowing about it. He made the same charge against Davis in closed door testimony, sources said.

Hughes' aides said he had put a "block" on their promotions to rear admiral and brigadier general respectively until their role in the 1970-71 spying episode is clarified.

Two Air Force officers, Maj. Gen. Alton D. Slay and Brig. General Charles A. Gabriel, on the list for an additional star each, were involved in the unauthorized 1971 air raids against North Vietnam ordered by ex-general John D. Lavelle. Lavelle, then Air Force commander in Southeast Asia, was forceably retired in 1973 for his actions.

Both Slay, then Lavelle's chief of operations, and Gabriel, then commander of the Thailand-based fighter wing that carried out the strikes, admitted falsifying Air Force records to conceal them. Both said they thought Lavelle had top secret authority, of which they knew nothing, to conduct the raids. They were not punished.

Hughes said he was not blocking action on these two men but would fight their promotions in committee and on the floor if need be. Committee action could come as soon as next Thursday, sources said, and the men are expected to be approved.

The fifth officer was named as Air Force Col. Hans Driesnack, who set off an Air Force investigation in 1968 that led to the dismissal in late 1969 of A. Ernest Fitzgerald, the civilian cost analyst who revealed the massive overruns in the giant C5A jet cargo planes. Hughes aides said his promotion to brigadier was also blocked until the allegatiions against him could be resolved.

A sixth officer, as yet unnamed, was blocked until he answers to Hughes' satisfaction questions about his role in the secret bombing of Cambodia in 1969-70, sources said. They added that Hughes had in addition blocked a seventh officer, but questions about that had already been resolved and the promotion cleared.

Biologist Predicts Reversal Of 'Clocks' In Aging Process

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A biologist said today science probably will discover within a decade or two how to reactivate genetic "clocks" which seem to contribute to the infirmities of old age.

"This potential moderation, control or even reversal of man's most universal enemy, the mental and physical debilities of old age, is, I believe, within the reach of our generation," said Dr. Bernard L. Strehler, of the University of Southern California.

He said in a paper at the final day of the week-long meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that all high forms of life possess internal genetic clocking systems that cause specific weakening events to take place as the individual ages. Some genes seem to switch off as the life cycle proceeds, making it impossible for the body to draw on information they contain to help produce new cells to replace parts damaged by disease or mishap.

The key question that needs to be answered, Strehler said, is how do genetic on and off switches work?

"For, once that particular question has been answered, it is not unlikely that pharmacological or other means for resetting the switches will also become feasible," he said in a paper.

He predicted researchers will answer this question within the next five years. He said it is probable that a means will be developed five to 10 years later to reactivate some of these turned off genes to restore some of the body's lost functions.

In an earlier session on aging, Dr. Robert R. Kohn, professor of pathology at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, pointed out that humans deteriorate and die in highly predictable and characteristic ways even when they have the best genes, nutrition and environment and in spite of all efforts to keep them alive.

"In many highly developed societies, the survival limits have been reached in recent decades, and no significant increases in life expectancy or lifespan can be anticipated until basic aging processes are understood and altered," he said Thursday.

San Rafael High Choir Sets Concert

The San Rafael High School A Cappella Choir will present a concert version of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic operetta "Trial by Jury" at 8 p.m. March 13 in the school auditorium.

The event, sponsored by the school music department, will help finance a tour of Southern California by school musicians in April.

Singing leads in the performance are Stacey Scott, Michale Puskar, Steve Brown, Ken Wilson, Roger Hill, Steve Foehr, Stacey Newbold, Leslie Johnson, Margaret Noel.

Accompanist will be Elizabeth Roberts, according to Byron Jones, director of vocal music for San Rafael city schools.

Beethoven Sonatas To Be Played

Nicholas Anderson, cellist, and Edwin Flath, pianist, will present a recital of Beethoven sonatas at 5:30 p.m., March 10 at the Community Congregational Church of Tiburon.

They will present, Sonata No. 1 in F major, Sonata No. 2 in G minor and Sonata No. 4 in C major.

Anderson is the principal cellist of the California University Symphony Orchestra and Flath is pianist, organist and conductor of the Berkeley-Peninsula Bach Choir.

Big Hole Marks Bomb Test Site

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI) — A great dent in the desert, like the footprint of a giant, marks the spot where a nuclear weapon blasted a cavern deep underground this week.

The desert floor slumped into the cavern Thursday, opening a crater 868 feet wide and 80 feet deep, the Atomic Energy Commission announced. The ground collapse is a common occurence after underground explosions at the AEC's test site here.

No radiation has escaped into the atmosphere from the test Wednesday, the AEC said. A nuclear explosive with a maximum force of 200,000 tons of TNT, believed to be a sophisticated missile warhead, was detonated 2,103 feet below the surface. It sent tremors through buildings in Las Vegas, 70 miles away.

Debakey Elected To Soviet Society

MOSCOW (UPI) — American heart surgeon Dr. Michael Debakey of Houston has been elected a foreign member of the Soviet Medical Academy of Sciences. The Tass news agency said Thursday Debakey's election was "an act of recognition on the part of the Soviet scientists of their American colleagues contribution to vascular surgery."

Last January Debakey performed a 6-½ hour operation on Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences. The surgery involved reconstruction of an aorta and other vessels. He is now fully recovered, friends said.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Day For Night" — Behind the scenes story, of making a movie. Serio-comedy about the realities of creating illusions. In French with English titles.

"Hot Rock" — Hilarious experiences of four accident-prone thieves who steal a fabulous diamond from a museum. Crime pays in this one.

"Junior Bonner" — A once famous rodeo rider, now a drifter, returns home to Prescott, Ariz., to ride in their annual event. There is unexpressed love in his family, each person facing his moment of truth in his own way.

"Slither" — Off-beat comedy of four people wending their way through California in search of hidden loot. Mood shifts from Hitchcock to Mack Sennet. Profanity.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Busting" — A movie that tries to be facetious and serious at the same time. The message is the ironies in the lot of the honest policeman afloat in a sea of corruption. (Products Digest)

"Cinderella Liberty" — Romantic comedy about a kindhearted sailor that falls in love with a bar-hustler who has a mulatto son. Their affair is a rocky one. Profanity and nudity.

"Getaway" — Tense action story. Two attractive stars make two vicious people seem like "just folks" and prove that crime does pay. Violence, sex, cursing.

"Love and Pain and the Whole Damn Thing" — Unlikely romance between an aging, failing English spinster and a mixed-up frustrated boy 30 years her junior. Part drama, comedy and soap-opera set in Spain.

"M.A.S.H." — Hilarious and very subtle anti-war film takes place during Korean conflict. Adult satire of life style developed by three army surgeons in order to survive the gore and horror that passes before their eyes.

"Serpico" — Engrossing true story about an honest yet rebellious cop in New York who fought a one-man war against corruption in the police force. Vulgar language is constant, considerable violence, sex and nudity.

"Slaughterhouse Five" — Satiric novel by Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., is basis for a mixture of tragedy of war, trivia of middle-class life and fantasy of science fiction. Nudity and cursing.

"The Sting" — A pair of cool 1930s con-men set out to ruin a powerful Chicago racketeer. Violence, cursing but entertaining for a mature audience.

"The Way We Were" — Love story of an odd couple that begins in the 1930s and ends in the 1950s.

ADULTS ONLY

"Cries and Whispers" — A psychological drama set in last century about sisters who return to the family home because their oldest sister is dying of cancer.

"Exorcist" — Movie offers no valid information about demonology. It sinks to a new low of sensationalism and creates appealing shock effects. Details are nauseating and crude and vulgar.

"Walking Tall" — Fictionalized account of Buford Pusser, a Tennessee lawman, who pays a terrible price for trying to clean up a corrupt town. Very violent, bloody, some nudity. (Boxoffice Magazine).

Birth Control Plans Banned

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The Argentine government Thursday prohibited all programs promoting birth control either directly or indirectly and limited the sale of contraceptives in an effort to increase the population.

A government decree recommended the Social Welfare Ministry study ways of increasing the population and decreed that a doctor's prescription in triplicate must be presented when buying birth control pills. They have previously been sold across the counter.

"Un-Argentine interests are trying to promote ways of life contrary to our destiny as a great country...by stimulating birth control, denaturalizing the fundamental maternal function of a woman, and distracting young people from their natural duty," the decree said.

Pop Singer Pleads Guilty To Charge

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — English pop star Elton John pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of assaulting a journalist. He was discharged without formal conviction on payment of $75 in court costs.

He was accused of assaulting 19-year-old journalist David Wheeler at a news conference for the singer Wednesday night. John's lawyer told the court that all John did was grab the reporter, and that the assault was technical.

Russian Plane Lands In Alaska

NOME, Alaska (UPI) — A Russian weather plane was forced to make an emergency landing when it ran out of gas, the U.S. Air Force reported Thursday. The Pentagon directed assistance.

The twin-engine turboprop with 12 persons aboard and a crew landed at Gambell on St. Laurence Island in the Bering Sea between Siberia and Alaska Wednesday. The Russians said strong winds drained their fuel supply.

The Air Force's Alaska Air Command flew in a load of fuel along with a mechanic so the plane could return to its base. A radar station at King Salmon picked up the plane first off Cape Romanzok, and F4 Interceptors were scrambled. They escorted the craft to Gambell.

SHADES OF THE OLD WEST

A group of youngsters gather to watch six men on a hunt organized by Dick Randall, owners of the Lock Stock and Barrel gun shop in San Rafael. The hunters, who look like characters from the old West, had permission to shoot pigs on a ranch near Cazadero in Sonoma County but, finding none of the wild animals, had to content themselves with firing at tin cans.

(Photos by Alfred M. Arn)

BLACK — Raymond Maynard of Novato closes his eyes as he fires his black powder rifle at a target on a ranch in Sonoma County. Maynard was one of six "black powder buffs" who gathered for an unsuccessful search for wild pigs.

THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1974 23

Demos Recind Headquarters Plan

The Democratic Central Committee of Marin last night rescinded its earlier decision to put its office in the headquarters of one of the seven candidates for the party's nomination for Congress.

The committee had voted by a narrow margin on Feb. 12 to rent office space in the headquarters of Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco, candidate in the Fifth Congressional District.

Opponents of the earlier action, objecting it could appear to violate the state law that bars central committees from endorsing candidates in partisan primary elections, called for last night's special session in the Marin Civic Center.

Agreeing the earlier action had clouded the committee's image, the 16 members present voted unanimously after more than an hour of debate to rescind it.

The successful motion by Harry J. Moore of Novato, candidate for the nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, instead designated all candidates' headquarters as "registration centers." The chairman of the registration drive, Nancy Willner of San Anselmo, was left free to decide which headquarters she will use.

The motion also stated the committee will pay nothing for using candidates' headquarters, so that no candidate will benefit financially from the registration drive.

(Mrs. Willner told the Independent-Journal she will use several of the candidates' headquarters, although a telephone for her already has been installed in Burton's Larkspur headquarters.)

The notice of the meeting said the issue needed "another airing" because of "the newspaper publicity as well as some newspaper advertising." Alan F. Reeves, another candidate in the congressional district, had criticized the earlier action in an advertisement in the I-J.

The committee also adopted unanimously a motion by Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael that the "incident was in no way meant to embarrass any Democratic candidate for office."

Hub School Tax Ballot Under Study

A June ballot measure asking voters in the San Anselmo School District to approve a tax hike of up to 50 cents per $1 of assessed valuation may be necessary to generate adequate operating revenue, the district board said last night.

"The board feels that we will not have enough money to operate next year" due to sagging enrollment and recent school financing law, Supt. Frank R. Elliott said today.

He said one possibility is a tax election next June, and said district trustees will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Red Hill School to discuss that possibility.

The financial picture emerged last night as Elliott proposed a $2,470,329 budget for 1974-75, down $65,058 from this fiscal year's $2,53,487 spending program.

Elliott said that the tentative budget is about $100,000 less than the district needs to operate "at current levels," and said the proposal does not include funds for cost of living increases for employees.

What effect the proposal might have on this fiscal year's school tax rate of $3.446 per $100 of assessed valuation is uncertain, he said.

The board also made no decision on a school calendar for next year, and asked Elliott to seek parents' advice on a new calendar that provides an extra week of vacation in February, thus requiring an additional week of school in June.

Man Beaten And Robbed

A 57-year-old San Rafael man was bludgeoned and robbed last night in his home in downtown San Rafael, police reported.

Hammett said that he had been in a nearby bar and went home about 11:40 p.m. He said he knew he was being followed but did not know that the man had followed him into the bathroom.

"Don't do anything, just give me your money," the man said and as Hammett turned he was hit over the left eye, police reported.

The robber was described as 20 to 24 years old, about five feet, eight inches tall, weighing about 160 pounds.

CONCENTRATION — Frank Leaman of Pacifica loads his six-shot black powder pistol — a job which takes about five minutes. The prized weaponry owned by the hunters ranges in cost from $50 to $100 for the pistols to more than $200 for the black powder rifles.

Hearst Food Hotline At End In Marin

A 24-hour hotline in San Rafael for donations of food and volunteer help in the Hearst food distribution program ended today with the group which reportedly sponsored the hotline disclaiming any association with it.

Kevin Foley, chairman of the Native Nations Organization at the College of Marin, said a man who represented himself as a spokesman for the group in setting up the hotline had no authority to do so.

"We're not associated with the hotline or the food distribution. This Jack Burr just went off on his own," Foley said.

Burr claimed he represented the group in setting up the hotline and publicizing it. He secured a 10-day donation of a phone answering service for the hotline from United Answering Service of San Rafael.

"We agreed to keep it open for 10 days through today. It will end today unless some other arrangement is made," said Angelo R. Turrini, manager of the answering service.

Foley said his group has no plans to continue the hotline. He would not say why his group did not want to be associated with the hotline.

Burr refused to talk to the Independent-Journal today and said any inquiry about the hotline should be directed to the Native Nations group at the college.

Turrini said someone had picked up all messages from the hotline but neither he nor Foley had any information about who picked up the messages or what has happened to them.

A New Leader For Coast Guard Division Picked

Coast Guard Rear Adm. Joseph J. McClelland has been nominated to the post of commander of the Coast Guard's Pacific area and promoted to the rank of vice admiral.

He will take over his new post after the retirement June 30 of Vice Adm. Mark A. Whalen, the present commander of the Pacific area.

The Pacific Area Command is responsible for the combined five Coast Guard Districts in the Pacific. This includes the 12th Coast Guard District which covers Northern and Central California. The others are headquartered in Long Beach, Seattle, Honolulu and Juneau.

BEHIND MARIN MOTOR MOVIES

A Tale Of Drugs And Missing Boy

Behind the boy's disappearance was a story of drug involvement and of failure by Casa Grande High School to follow through on a promise to alert police and parents if Joe missed his classes.

The stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Coffing of 501 Albert Way, today were most concerned over finding their missing son. But they were bitter in denunciation of school authorities for what Principal William T. Anderson admitted was a procedural breakdown that allowed the student's troubles to mount without his parents' knowledge.

The case came to light only after the Coffings addressed a letter to the Petaluma Board of Education "with the earnest hope that some other families may be spared the grief, anxiety, worry and heartache that have affected us."

The Coffings related that they became aware last December, Joe was using marijuana.

"We watched his grade point average drop rapidly; we became concerned over his apparent drowsiness after school and during the evening hours; he lacked drive and initiative," their letter said.

In January, police arrested Joe in an old barn near the school where, according to the Coffings, he and other boys went to smoke marijuana. They returned him to school. He was suspended for three days.

At that time, the Coffings related, they made an agreement with the high school dean of boys that the police be notified immediately at any time Joe did not attend class.

On Jan. 29, Joe was arrested again, with two other youths, for marijuana use. He was sent to juvenile hall and held overnight.

"That next morning," continued the letter, "my wife was counseled by a girl in her early 20s and dressed in Levis advising us, in effect, that marijuana really wasn't the problem at all. The real problem lay in the shortcomings of the family. This insight she gained after 20 minutes with Joe and 10 to 15 minutes with my wife."

Joe was returned to school and, for the second time, an agreement made to notify police immediately for him to be picked up if he did not attend class.

The marijuana problem continued. Joe and other boys at the school "smoked pot" each day during the lunch hour, Mrs. Coffing said. "His school photos were taken after lunch hour one day and he looked so terrible I tore them up," she told a reporter.

"On Thursday, Feb. 21," continued the letter, "we discovered Joe had been taking pills regularly, in this case 'downers,' and, like marijuana, readily available on the grounds of this legal institution of learning — a place where, like every community throughout the country, we parents must, by law, give up our children to the care, counsel and training by the state."

That time, the parents took Joe to Synanon, but he refused to undergo its rigorous program for cure of drug addiction. And that night, he ran away.

On Feb. 25, the Coffings went to the high school to check further on what had happened. "We were shocked beyond belief," they wrote, "to find that Joe had been absent from his classes as much as 15 of the last 18 days; yet, not once were we notified that he was not attending school nor were the police notified as had been the arrangement with the school."

Then another foul-up followed. Through a misunderstanding that the parents wanted no publicity, the Petaluma Police Department did not put out a missing person alert until today.

Principal Anderson admitted the failure to follow through on notifying parents and police if Joe cut classes.

"Regretably, we made a mistake," he said. "There just wasn't the adequate follow-through."

Casa Grande, a 1,200-student school in the new-subdivision area of East Petaluma, has a class-by-class attendance reporting system, Anderson said, but the procedure proved inadequate for providing the prompt reporting needed. "We're taking a good hard look at our procedures and are trying to plug this leak," he declared.

Anderson said the drug problem at the school "is no worse than at any other high school in the area, I'm convinced."

Joe is a slender 6 feet 1 inch, weighing 150 pounds. He has blue eyes and when last seen had brown hair down to his shoulders. The Coffings have no idea where he may have gone. He ran away once before, said Mrs. Coffing, but remained only overnight, staying in an unfinished tract home.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Acupuncture Caused A Flurry In England 150 Years Ago

Acupuncture was introduced in Great Britain more than 150 years ago. It had somewhat the same effect on the English as it has now on Americans. Interestingly, in 1823 it was recorded in the first volume of "Lancet," a medical journal still published in England. The patient mentioned in the report had rheumatism and abdominal distention due to gas. The ancient art relieved the gas but nothing was said about the rheumatism.

Many favorable reports followed. According to a recent editorial in the "British Medical Journal," one of the chief advocates of acupuncture in the 19th century " . . . could not explain how it worked, but he had, to his own satisfaction, excluded the possible roles of fear, confidence, and counter-irritation."

OTHER INVESTIGATORS reported successful results in one-third or more of cases involving muscular problems and described relief of pain in about one case in 10 as "brilliant." Ultimately, acupuncture fell into disrepute in Europe but the technique is catching on again.

However, its popularity never waned in China where it was devised some 26 centuries B. C. Many American physicians visiting hospitals in China have seen good results. At present, many tests are being conducted in several centers in the United States. Our physicians insist, however, that the diagnosis be established beyond doubt before anything is done. In one instance, a woman with pain in the shoulder did not respond to acupuncture. The distress was traced to a diseased gallbladder and removal of the organ brought about cure.

MOST OF THE research has narrowed down to the effect of acupuncture on deafness, narcotics withdrawal, chronic pain, and as a surgical anesthetic. All but two of 10 patients with nerve deafness regained either full or partial hearing after acupuncture. Time will tell whether these results hold up.

Narcotics withdrawal is less painful after the needles are inserted into the inner shell of the ear. However, it does not diminish the craving for heroin. To date, three of every 10 patients with chronic pain obtain some relief even though the results are unpredictable. Acupuncture has been most promising as a surgical anesthesia. Chinese surgeons carefully screen all potential acupuncture candidates and almost always use painkilling drugs before or during the operation.

Man Freed As Suspect In Murder

Sonoma County authorities said today they will not charge a Santa Venetia man in connection with the murder of a motorcycle gang member in December unless new evidence is found.

Reuben Richard Robles, 32, was arrested Tuesday after Marin and Sonoma sheriff's deputies raided his home in search of a gun thought to have been used in the murder of Richard Ashbury, 35.

They found a .32-caliber pistol in a dresser, but a ballistics test showed it was not the same weapon used to fire four shots into Ashbury's head, the Sonoma District Attorney's office said.

Meanwhile, Robles pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing stolen property and possessing amphetamines. A preliminary hearing will be March 21.

Deputies reportedly found another gun, believed to be stolen, and the drugs in the raid.

Robles's wife, Bonnie Dolores Robles, 21, and Ruslin Effeni Monoarfa, 24, also arrested on suspicion of possessing amphetamines and possessing them for sale, will not be charged by the Marin District Attorney's office.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest V. Zunino said there was nothing to link them with the drugs.

The Sonoma County Sheriff's office previously had said it thought Robles, reportedly a member of the San Rafael Hells Angels, murdered Ashbury, also a motorcycle gang member, dumped his nude body near the Russian River and set it afire.

Park Budget Outlined In Novato

A $429,555 budget for 1973-74, including a teen-age program, has been recommended by the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission.

The budget, up $129,370 from the current year, also includes additional maintenance men and repair of the Community House roof, according to parks and recreation director Lester S. Russell.

Commissioners have recommended adding a teen-age program coordinator and three full-time and one part-time maintenance men to the staff, Russell said.

The commission last night also recommended a $231,790 capital improvements budget which includes the following park development:

Pioneer Park, $15,000; Miwok Park, $41,500; Marin Highlands, $6,500; Olive School Park, $29,000; Lynwood School Park, $8,000; O'Hair property, $10,000; and development of tot lots in the southern section of the city, $20,000.

The commission recommended that the city accept an offer from Crown Development Co. to dedicate 30 acres at Rancho Village No. 11 subdivision to the city.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Special Pay Sought For Foster's Widow

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two Bay Area legislators yesterday proposed legislation to make it possible for the widow of slain Oakland School Superintendent Marcus Foster to receive special compensation.

Assemblyman John J. Miller, D-Berkeley, and Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, said they were "gravely concerned" that the Oakland School Board had made no provision to help Mrs. Foster because of legal restraints.

Under the legislation, Mrs. Foster would receive compensation equal to the amount of salary her husband would have received had he lived to finish his four-year term.

"The city of Oakland and the state of California lost one of the finest of educators in the assassination of Marcus Foster," the legislators said. "The least we can do is make sure that his suffering family will not have to suffer hardships. . ."

JUDGE PENSIONS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill providing a $578,000 transfusion for the bankrupt judges' retirement fund has narrowly won approval from the Assembly.

The bill (SB1617) by Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, was returned to the Senate yesterday on a minimum 54-15 vote for concurrence in Assembly amendments.

Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, said the appropriation was needed to pay for pension checks to be mailed this week.

Actuarial Systems Inc. of San Jose recently described as "makeshift" the current method of financing the pension program. It said a $110 million appropriation would be needed to put it immediately on an "actuarially sound" footing.

Some assemblymen argued that if the legislature approves such "urgency" appropriation every year to keep the fund in the black, the necessary reforms of the pension system never will be made.

TAX EXEMPTION

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly yesterday voted final legislative approval of a bill providing permanent instead of annual filing for homeowners' property tax exemptions.

The bill(AB198) by Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, would grant permanent exemption status to homeowners who claim it. Homeowners would have the responsibility to notify the state when they no longer qualify for the tax break.

The bill, sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan on a 62-0 vote, also would require a property tax bill to be sent to every homeowner, even if it was paid by the mortgage company. In addition, it relaxes provisions for late filing for the tax exemption.

In a related action, the Assembly passed a bill SB38 by Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, to reduce the age requirement from 62 to 60 to qualify for special senior citizens' property tax assistance.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill permitting women to register to vote under the prefix "Ms." won final legislative approval yesterday from the Assembly.

The women's rights bill AB765 by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan on a 43-0 vote to accept minor Senate amendments. Kapiloff said he had been told Reagan will sign the measure.

HISTORY ROLE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation requiring that all new school textbooks "accurately portray the role and contributions of European Americans" to development of California and the nation was introduced yesterday in the Senate.

The bill (SB2509) was offered by Sen. Mervyn H. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, who is seeking to become California's first black lieutenant governor.

TAHOE PURCHASE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of Parks and Recreation yesterday said it has purchased six acres of prime downtown lake front property at Lake Tahoe for $682,500.

The property along Highway 28 gives the state 2,000 feet of lake front. It was purchased from the Joseph King Estate.

SCHOOL SMOKING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill aimed at creating special smoking areas in California high schools has been amended by the Assembly to allow parents to deny the smoking privilege to their youngsters.

The measure (SB71) by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, was amended yesterday on a 39-28 vote. a final vote on the much-debated bill is expected next week.

Hospital's Executive Will Leave

Hillcrest Hospital Administrator Joseph M. Horner last night handed his resignation to the Petaluma Hospital's board of directors.

Horner will leave April 1 for a new position elsewhere. He would not disclose the location of his new job, according to board spokesman Del Miller, because he prefers that his new employers make the announcement.

Miller said the board will meet in closed session next Friday to discuss a screening process to find a replacement.

Horner, who could not be reached for comment, was one of 140 candidates who sought the Hillcrest post after administrator Lorlee Smith resigned in January 1970, after five years on the job. Horner is a former Navy pilot and intelligence officer.

Auto Group Incumbents Reelected

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Eight incumbent directors of the California State Automobile Association yesterday won reelection over a slate of dissidents who were nominated by petition.

The winners had been put on the ballot by a nominating committee. It was the first time in the association's history that a slate nominated by the committee had been challenged.

Reelected by the association's 1.3-million membership, each receiving more than 500,000 votes, were Victor K. Atkins and John M. Bryan of San Francisco, Charles F. Bulotti Jr. of San Mateo, Jack Craemer of Greenbrae, Jack F. Daly Jr. of Eureka, William M. Otterson of Merced, James M. Wells Sr. of Redding and Charles W. Wherry of Modesto. The petition-nominated candidates averaged about 7,000 votes each, according to Neal Garrison, association secretary.

Association by-laws required at least 6,500 signatures on the petitions for nomination.

Still pending is a court hearing on an election fraud suit filed by the dissident slate, which complained that printed proxies sent to the CSAA members bore only the names of the incumbents. Association officials and attorneys at yesterday's election meeting refused to comment on the suit, since it is still undecided — and possibly could upset the election results.

Results Of Survey Are Tabulated

By ANNE WEST

In the wide open spaces of northwest Marin, residents focus their strongest concerns on sewage pollution of Walker Creek, preservation of agricultural lands and control of population growth.

Tourists are apparently viewed with mixed feelings. A strong majority feels overnight and weekend facilities should be provided for trailers and campers. But proposals to expand tourist accommodations in general get a negative response.

These and other samples of community desires among the ranchlands dotted with the villages of Tomales, Dillon Beach and Fallon are indicated in the replies to a survey drawn up by the Northwest Marin Planning Group. Out of approximately 700 questionnaires sent out to residents and property owners, 284 responses were returned.

The communities are against incorporation of the villages into their own local governments. Existing service levels for fire and police protection win approval, though with strong dissenting votes, and a local health-care office receives the most votes on a listing of proposed community facilities.

Sewage: Something should be done soon about discharge of raw sewage into Walker Creek at Tomales (258-15-11); would support sewage bond issue for present Tomales population (179-58-47); would support sewage bond issue for future expansion of Tomales (109-94-81).

Agriculture — Current agricultural use of land is valued for open space (254-12-18); would support bond issue for public acquisition of scenic parcels to be leased back for agricultural use (162-76-46).

Growth — Want population to remain about the same as now (188-40-56); village expansion recommended by the county general plan is appropriate (99-109-76).

Development — Planning affecting the area should be done by combined efforts of the county planning department and a local planning group (234-23-27); commercial subdivisions are inappropriate to the area (199-45-40); future growth should be concentrated primarily around existing villages (193-46-45).

Tourism — Should provide overnight and weekend facilities for trailers and campers (153-71-60); northwest Marin should expand its tourist accommodations (88-117-79).

Needs — Want a health-care facility (128-88-68); want community swimming pool (110-109-65). All other proposals, including a recreation or meeting hall, a child care center and an employment center, were turned down in majority votes.

The next meeting of the Northwest Marin Planning Group will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 11, at Tomales High School. Membership is open to any interested resident, according to J.Fred Clark, secretary.

More On Jobs

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Unemployment, one of Panama's most persistent problems, dropped from 7.6 per cent of the "economically active population" in 1972 to 6.8 per cent in 1973, according to the Controller General's office.

Home Atop Tomales Bay Piling Asked

George O. Kohler of 12700 Tamalpais Avenue, Inverness, has applied for an Army Corps of Engineers permit for his home which is supported on wooden piles on Tomales Bay.

Apparently Kohler was unaware he needed such a permit when the house was built, a corps spokesman said.

The house, which is 2390 square feet, is supported by 15 piles. A portion of the docking and two piles are bayward of the line on shore reached by the plane of mean higher high water.

Persons who want to object to a permit being issued on such grounds as conservation, aesthetics, fish and wildlife values, water supply and general environmental concerns may write the corps at 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco 94102, the spokesman said.

Airport X-Ray Use Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge has given the government until March 14 to justify the use of X-ray machines at airports to thwart potential hijackers.

U. S. District Court Judge Barrington D. Parker responded Thursday to a plea from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and granted a stay until March 14 of an order he issued the day before to end use of the machines.

The FAA requested the stay "for the purpose of determining what our future course of action will be."

Special Ecology Session Is Set

A special meeting of the members of the Marin Ecology Center will be held at 8 p.m., Tuesday at the Planning Commission Chambers of the Marin County Civic Center, according to Richard Benjamin, of the board of directors.

The board has been evaluating the center's work and wants opinions from the members to help determine the center's future, he said.

GOING STRONG AT 80

TV Commercials Open Up Whole New Career

By JERRY BUCK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At 80 most people are well into retirement. At 80 Ress Fix is well into a second career in television commercials.

Mrs. Fix, a retired Indiana school teacher, moved to Hollywood in 1969 to be near her son, announcer Jay Stewart of "Let's Make a Deal."

But she couldn't stay inactive. Even after she retired in 1959 after 40 years of teaching she couldn't quit. She was a substitute teacher for 10 more years.

Once out here she enrolled in two commercials training courses. After that she got an agent and on her fifth interview was hired for a commercial.

"My first big one was for a supermarket chain," she recalled proudly. "I was the lead. I had lots of lines."

The attractive, white-haired Mrs. Fix has been in more than a dozen television commercials and magazine advertisements since. Recently, she spent three days in Santa Rosa, filming a motorcycle commercial.

"They're bringing grandma and grandpa in more and more commercials," she said. "There's a trend more toward the family in commercials. That wasn't true a few years ago."

For Mrs. Fix it's a show business career long deferred. She said, "My senior picture at DePauw University said, 'The stage, the stage, my kingdom for the stage.' And I never got near it for years."

After graduation in 1916 she married Julian Cleve Fix and traveled briefly in the Midwest with two male singers as Two Hits and a Miss.

In 1918 she began her long teaching career, although she continued to write and direct plays and skits.

"I was making $22 a day as a substitute teacher in Indianapolis," said Mrs. Fix, whose husband died in 1941. "I thought I could never come out here and earn a dime. I've made more last year than I've ever made in my life. It's a dream come true. But I never thought it would come true. I'm just beginning."

Mrs. Fix said, "I never knew anything but work. My father never let us play. I don't know how to retire. The women's clubs told me I'd never be wanted or needed unless I learned to play bridge. If that's what it takes I'll never be wanted or needed. But I'm taking bridge lessons.

"I love working. They scold me all the time because I go, go, go, do, do, do. But that's what keeps me healthy. I love this new career."

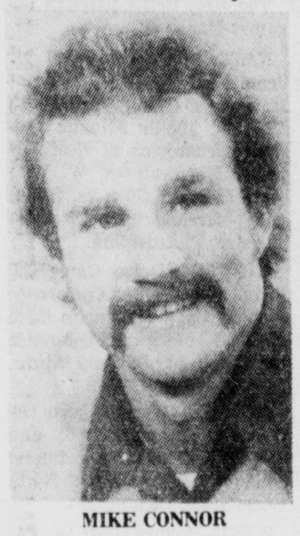
The Right Man To Head Drive

Marin County's Easter Seal Society picked a very outstanding young man for its honorary chairman of the six-week fund drive starting today.

The young man is Mike Connor, freshman at Stanford University who was described as the best athletic in Redwood High School's history before his graduation last June. Since that time, his hair is slightly longer and he now sports a mustache.



MIKE CONNOR

Working with handicapped kids is nothing new for Connor, who was a volunteer helper in youth programs in Marin when he was here. Now that he's at Stanford, things haven't changed. "There's a little friend of mine — Robby — who has emotional problems. He lives in Palo Alto. I like to make him feel he's part of us, take him places, things like that," said Connor yesterday during an office visit to the I-J. "The thing I'm in is like a Big Brother program but we are on our own."

An all-Marin County Athletic League performer in football, basketball and baseball when he was at Redwood, Mike is attending Stanford on a full football scholarship. He was starting strong safety on last year's junior varsity football team and hopes to win the starting job on Stanford's varsity team this year. With the graduation of All-American Randy Poltl the strong safety spot is open.

"I WILL BE STARTING spring practice on April 6. It will be five weeks with an intrasquad game as the climax," he said. Football is the only intercollegiate sport he's playing although he has been getting in some intramural basketball with some of the other football players. And that's a contact sport. "Because of the inexperienced referees in those games there are not too many fouls called," Mike said with a smile.

Christianity is a very big part of Connor's life. "There are a lot of Christians on the football team and we have scripture readings after dinner. I'm really learning to be in athletics through Christ. I'm competing for different goals. It's not necessary to go out there to beat the other guy to a pulp."

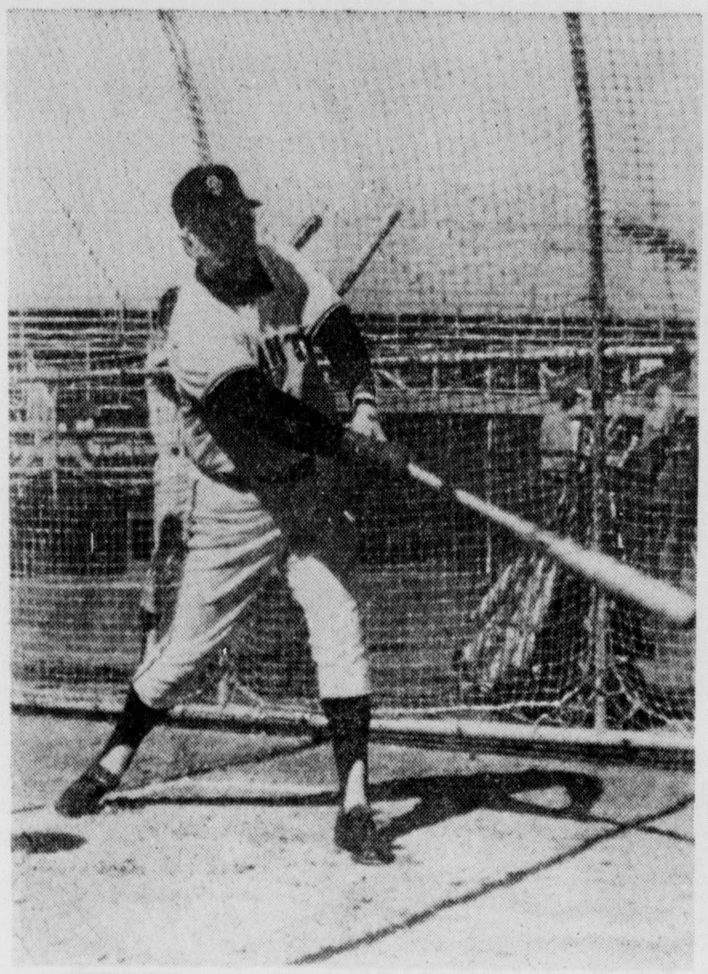
Connor said it was a two-way street before. "I thought of Christianity off the field (he was a lay reader in his church) but I didn't think about it on the field." That has changed, he said. He has become involved with Campus Crusade for Christ and Athletes in Action at Stanford.

HE PLAYED FOR the North last year in the high school Shrine game in Los Angeles and before the game visited some of the crippled children in the Shriners' Hospital. "When I was in that hospital I could see those kids had frustrations inside. . . they felt they weren't loved like other kids. I'm learning through Christianity that God loves all people. Those kids can overcome their frustrations if they realize that. Hopefully I can help them do that."

A pre-med student at Stanford, Connor has aspirations of becoming a surgeon. A year ago he had planned to become a brain surgeon but now is considering the possibility of orthopedic surgery.

EARNING B GRADES his first quarter at Stanford, Connor made the transition from high school to college easily. "We don't have athletic dorms. Athletes are treated just like any other students on campus. It's a good feeling. In high school too many times you are looked at as a jock."

The Easter Seal people of Marin County have set a campaign goal of $35,000. With Connor on their side, I bet they get it.



A SWINGER — San Francisco Giants' manager Charlie Fox yesterday got into the swing of things as he hit a few baseballs from the batters cage (left) just before practice started in Casa Grande, Ariz. After the morning workouts, Fox put on his golf shoes and started swinging again for 18 holes. (UPI Telephotos)

IN GIANTS' BATTING PRACTICE

Goodson's Hurt Finger Holds Up

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Ed Goodson, the sweet swinging San Francisco Giants first baseman, figures his injured finger passed the first test all right.

Goodson, who suffered a broken index finger on his right hand last Aug. 17 while batting a cool .302, took his first swings since the injury at the Giants camp yesterday and said "so-far, so good."

Goodson, working overtime in the batting cage, made contact 25 times on 30 pitches and reported he felt no pain in the damaged finger.

"But it wasn't that much of a test," he said, "because I didn't hit the ball all that hard."

Goodson was a third baseman last year but has been switched to first this year with Dave Kingman going to third.

Manager Charlie Fox would like it the other way around, with Kingman at first, but because of Goodson's damaged finger he figures there will be less wear and tear at first than at third.

"That doesn't mean I don't think Goody can play first," said Fox. "He can play it as good as anyone in our league. It's just that he was developing into a pretty fair third baseman when he got hurt."

Tito Fuentes, pepperpot second baseman, has signed his contract but hasn't put in an appearance as yet. Fox isn't too concerned because Tito played winter baseball and is in shape.

Meanwhile, reserve infielder-catcher Chris Arnold and pitcher Mike Caldwell went to their beds with the flu. Also bedded down with the flu are batting coach Hank Sauer and assistant equipment manager Mike Murphy.

Three players who had the bug earlier, emerged for their first workouts. They were pitchers John D'Acquisto, Don Rose and Butch Metzger.

Fever Can't Stop Citrus Leader Ewing

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Ewing thought a fever might knock him out of play and Arnold Palmer ran into a triple bogey headache on the first hole.

But Ewing, a 29-year-old Californian, got his first hole-in-one yesterday in the $150,000 Citrus Open to card a 67 and go into today's second round tied for the lead.

And Palmer, who got "madder 'n hell," fought back from an opening disaster with a pair of eagles, picking up eight strokes on par in just 13 holes, to finish one stroke behind the leaders and serve notice he can still mount a charge.

"I missed the cut here last year and it looked like I was going to do it again —on the first hole," said the bespectacled Palmer, who hasn't won a Professional Golfers Association tournament since the Bob Hope 13 months ago.

Ewing, one of three who hit holes-in-one on the 6,929-yard layout at Rio Pinar Country Club yesterday, said, "I didn't think I'd ever get one but today I finally made it.

"It hit about 15 feet short of the cup, took one good bounce, hit the pin, and hung on the lip before it finally dropped in."

The 6-foot-2, 200-pounder, who had a fever of 100 degrees the night before, scored four other birdies against a lone bogey.

Jerry Heard, the 1972 Citrus winner, also posted a five-under-par 67 with five birdies and no bogeys, and Dick Crawford joined the leaders with six birdies and one bogey.

Posting 68s along with Palmer were Leonard Thompson, who won his first tournament last week in the Gleason Inverrary, Andy North and Jim Colbert.

Barry Shows UCLA Some Hot Shooting

OAKLAND (AP) — When Golden State Warriors forward Rick Barry learned that UCLA's awesome center Bill Walton was in the audience, he remarked, "Might as well show those college kids something."

And so he did, by scoring 42 points as the Warriors smashed the Portland Trail Blazers 129-109 last night in a National Basketball Association game here.

It was the seventh time this season that Barry has topped the 40-point mark. He now is averaging 24.5 points per game.

Walton and the other UCLAns, who play California tonight, stayed until midway through the third quarter when the Warriors ran up a 27-point lead.

The victory moved the first-place Warriors 1½ games ahead of the idle Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA's Pacific Division. It was Portland's ninth straight loss and 23 in the last 25 games.

A Downbeat For Tar '5'

SAN PABLO — College of Marin concluded its 1973-74 basketball season on a downbeat last night, losing to Contra Costa College here, 82-74, despite 35 points by Wil Garner.

"It was a very, very open, uncontrolled run game," said coach John Panagakis, "and we couldn't control their center."

STREAK ENDED

The defeat broke a four-game Marin winning streak and left the Tars 12-4 in the Camino Norte Conference and 24-4 overall. "Last night was a letdown, but we're proud of the kids for the way they played all year," Panagakis said.

Marin played most of the game without guard Leonard Smith, who twisted his right knee early in the game. Smith suffered a hyperextended left knee in Tuesday's victory over Canada College.

OTHER SCORERS

Bill Donnellan added 15 points and Jared McFerrin 10 for Marin.

Marin ended up third in the standings after winning the title last year. The Tars trailed De Anza of Cupertino (15-1) and Foothill of Los Altos (14-2).

A's Jackson Wants To Be MVP — Again

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Reggie Jackson is serious about winning the American League Most Valuable Player again this year.

While he had permission to report late, Reggie surprised manager Alvin Dark and his Oakland A's teammates yesterday by showing up a couple of days early for spring training.

Naturally, the first thing Jackson did was grab a bat and start spraying the ball all over Rondevouz Park, much to Dark's delight.

"He look's great, doesn't he?" Dark asked. "One thing you never have to worry about is Jackson being in shape and wanting to play."

"Winning the MVP carries a heavy responsibility," said Jackson, who hit 32 homers and drove in 132 runs last year. "Wouldn't it be something if I won it two years in a row?"

Yesterday's practice was pretty routine except for the fact there were only 31 players on hand—meaning six were absent.

No reason was given for the absence of second basemen Ted Kubiak and Manny Trillo, third baseman Phil Garner and outfielder Angel Mangual.

The other absentees are captain Sal Bando, who is to report today, and unsigned outfielder Billy Conigliaro.

Gene Tenace, hero of the 1972 World Series victory over Cincinnati, said he has had a change of heart and will go behind the plate if Dark needs him there.

Tenace, convered to first base last year, said a week ago he would never catch again. That was after he lost out in arbitration and said owner Charlie Finley had let him down. Tenace worked 134 games at first base and 33 behind the plate last year.

"I was bitter about losing in arbitration," said Tenace. "I've given some consideration to my statement of not wanting to catch and I decided it would be beneficial to me and the team

Important Time For NFL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — It may be off-season for the National Football League but the next two months will be as important as any in the regular season.

The league owners and players begin contract negotiations next month and NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle closed the owners' annual winter meetings yesterday with the hope that a strike could be avoided.

"I'm sure the players want this thing settled by the opening of training camp," Rozelle said. "I know the owners do. There's pressure on both sides to settle this thing."

The players are scheduled to hold a meeting this weekend in Chicago prior to opening talks with the owners next month.

Rozelle said he will be a third party to the negotiations and that his main function will be to serve as "an escape valve."

"I'm going to follow the negotiations very closely," he said. "I'm not going to get involved unless I'm asked. I'm just going to try and stay close and help both sides if I can.

"I think my job is to keep lines of communication open to both sides. If a bitter impasse is reached and both sides want to resume, maybe I can serve as the escape valve. Maybe a third party can facilitate the negotiations."

Rozelle also indicated that pre-season games were important to players as well as owners.

"The pre-season games are more important to players than a lot of people realize," he said. "The per diem plus payment for pre-season games can run up to $500 a week for some players and few of us can kiss that off. I don't think the players have an attitude that pre-season is meaningless and I think they want this settled before they go to camp.

"Many players don't have full-time jobs during the offseason and look forward to the pay in pre-season. Also, a lot of players aren't sure of their jobs and need the pre-season to earn positions with clubs."

"The owners are not going to call off the season," he said. "As far as I'm concerned, they're not."

Rozelle said he had been informed of the players' vote for a strike authorization but said he expected it as a normal labor grievance and added that he did not expect any of his powers as commissioner to be diminished in negotiation.

The meetings ended with most major issues postponed. Expansion talks will be held in April in New York and the competition committee will meet next week to discuss possible rules changes. Those won't come up until the spring meetings in New York in June.

The five sites under consideration for expansion are Honolulu, Phoenix, Tampa, Seattle and Memphis.

Stiff Penalty Against Forey

SEATTLE (UPI) — One of the stiffest penalties in the history of the Western Hockey League has been assessed against Connie Forey of Denver by league president William H. MacFarland.

MacFarland suspended Forey for the remainder of the current season and all of the next for attacking referee Malcolm Ashford and breaking his nose.

MacFarland also ordered Forey to pay $10,000 for any civil judgment obtained by Ashford as a condition of reinstatement for the 1975-76 season. Forey attacked Ashford during a Denver-Seattle game in the Seattle Coliseum Feb. 20.

Hurler D'Acquisto Has Confidence

By JACK HANLEY

CASA GRANDE — John D'Acquisto is a rookie right-hander from whom the Giants expect big things this season. And D'Acquisto is confident he will deliver.

D'Acquisto, a pitching whiz out of San Diego's St. Augustine High School, is a strong armed young man of 22, solidly built at 205 pounds and 6-feet-2.

"I have two goals this season," said D'Acquisto. "First, I want to win 15, at least 15 games. Second, I want to go all the way with this team which I think is going to win it this year."

"We have excellent relief pitching," he said. "The key to success is in our front line pitching. It's that simple. It's no secret."

D'Acquisto's analysis of the situation confronting the Candlestick Kids this season is accurate. Their pennant hopes depend on another big year from Ron Bryant, last year's 24-game winner; an improved production from Tom Bradley who was a disappointing 13-12 in 1973; a big contribution from Mike Caldwell, the young southpaw for whom Willie McCovey was traded to the Padres, and, of course, D'Acquisto's anticipated 15.

In his first major league victory last Sept. 21 following his callup from the Giants' Phoenix farm club, D'Acquisto did flash the kind of stuff that fashions 15-game winners.

D'Acquisto struck out 11 Padres in a 7-2 four-hit triumph. Two of the hits off the rookie were solo homers, one by Nate Colbert, the other by Gene Locklear.

It was after that game that Charlie Fox announced D'Acquisto would be in the 1974 starting rotation.

"You better believe it," said the manager.

The fact that D'Acquisto missed three days of spring training last week because of the flu hasn't disturbed him.

"If I had to get a case of 72-hour flu it came at the best time — just as we were starting the training program," said D'Acquisto. "Actually, I came to camp in good shape. I'd been working out for the last month and a half, keeping my weight at 205 which is just five pounds over my best pitching weight. I'll be trimmed down to 200 in short order."

Goalie Brooks Is Late Arrival

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sometimes, the delivery is late.

Goalie Ross Brooks spent 10 years in the minors and finally had to resort to the mails in order to reach the majors.

Brooks, at 34 a candidate for rookie of the year in the National Hockey League, tied a 44-year-old National Hockey League record last night when the Boston Bruins beat the Detroit Red Wings, 8-1. For Brooks, it was his 14th consecutive victory in the Bruins' nets.

But the road to stardom was tortuous. In 1970, Brooks was released by the Providence Reds of the American Hockey League as an over-the-hill goalie at age 31. He sent letters to all the NHL teams and their affiliates and finally landed a job with the Oklahoma City Blazers.

The Bruins brought him back to the AHL with its Boston Braves farm team and finally gave Brooks the big break last season as a substitute netminder. He performed remarkably well with an 11-2-3 record, including the playoffs.

The Detroit victory "was not one of my tougher efforts," Brooks said after the game. "There wasn't a heck of a lot to do back there. Anyone could have played goal tonight."

Phil Esposito led the Boston offense with his 450th and 451st career goals, giving him a total of 53 for the season. Terry O'Reilly also scored two Bruin goals. Doug Roberts scored for the Wings in the second period after Boston had run up a 5-0 score.

Canadiens 7, Penguins 1

Claude Larose made it seven goals in his last two games as he scored four times against Pittsburgh. Larose netted three goals against Atlanta Tuesday night. Henri Richard celebrated his 38th birthday with 13th goal of the season for Montreal. Jean Pronovost ruined Wayne Thomas's shutout with a third period goal.

"I took only five shots on goal," Larose said, "and missed on my best shot of the night."

Maple Leafs 6, Islanders 4

Paul Henderson's three-goal hat trick in the third period powered Toronto past New York. The Islanders had gained a 3-2 second stanza lead on tallies by Brian Spencer and Ed Westfall.

Flyers 2, North Stars 2

Philadephia remained tied with Chicago in the NHL West as Jimmy Watson and Bobby Clarke scored for the Flyers. Murray Oliver and J.P Parise tallied for Minnesota.

Sabres 2, Black Hawks 2

Craig Ramsay's third period goal earned Buffalo a tie with Chicago. The Hawks grabbed a 2-0 lead on goals by Phil Russell and Stan Mikita before Rick Dudley put the Sabres on the scoreboard.

Kings 3, Flames 1

Butch Goring sored two goals and assisted on the other Los Angeles marker as the Kings climbed to within one point of fourth place Atlanta in the NHL West. Bob Leiter scored Atlanta's lone goal.

In World Hockey Association games last night, Houston whipped Chicago 9-4, New England and Jersey tied 3-3, Quebec trounced Vancouver 9-4, Toronto blanked Winnipeg 3-0 and Minnesota deadlocked Cleveland 6-6.

Tam Wrestler Ford In State Meet Today

Greg Ford of Tamalpais High School, Marin's lone survivor from last week's North Coast Tournament, will be seeking greater glory today in the state wrestling meet at Cal State Hayward.

Ford was third in the 114-pound category last weekend, after earlier finishing second in the divisional meet and first in the Marin County Athletic League competition.

Today's schedule called for weigh-ins from 9-11:30 a.m., with the first round scheduled for noon. Ford was to meet Andy Gonzales of Yerba Buena High.

The first three rounds were scheduled today and the other two tomorrow. Consolation rounds were to begin tonight and continue tomorrow.

Over The Hill Gang Wins In Rec Cage

Steve Lange and Ron Blum scored 14 points each last night as the Over The Hill Gang defeated Mike's Bar and Grill, 49-30, in a San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league game at Davidson Junior High.

In another game, Ron Smith's 13 points led George and Charles Carpentry to a 40-35 win over Ward's, despite Ray Cordoba's 16 points for the losers. The All-Catholic All-Stars defeated the Hardhats by forfeit.

Hunting, Fishing Licenses Measure

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation upping the fees for hunting and fishing guide licenses from $10 to $25 for residents and to $100 for nonresidents was introduced in the Senate yesterday.

Sponsored by Sen. Clare L. Berryhill, R-Ceres, the measure SB1785 would also apply to nature photography guides.

TO NCAA TOURNEY

6 Of Top 20 Teams Invited

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Six teams ranked in the top 20 were picked yesterday, along with three others, to fill at-large berths in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament.

Second-ranked Notre Dame (23-1) and No. 7 Marquette (22-3) headed the field of independents and both will compete in the Mideast Regional at Indiana State in Terre Haute, Ind.

Notre Dame will meet the Ohio Valley Conference champion and Marquette will play the Mid-American Conference winner in first-round games on March 9. Other ranked teams receiving at-large berths include No. 11 Pittsburgh, No. 13 Providence and Nos. 16 South Carolina and Creighton.

MIDWEST—Oral Roberts (20-4) vs. Syracuse (18-6) and Creighton (21-5) vs. Southwest Conference champion at North Texas State, Denton, Tex.

WEST—Dayton (17-7) vs. Pacific Coast Athletic Association champion and Big Sky Conference champion vs. Western Athletic Conference champion at Idaho State, Pocatello, Idaho.

Sites of all first-round games, with the exception of the East, had been selected prior to yesterday.

Marin Prep Relays An Indicator

The Marin County Athletic League Relays, generally a good indicator of which teams will be strong in local high school track and field, will be held tomorrow at College of Marin.

Field events will begin at 11 a.m. and track events at noon on the all-weather surface.

San Marin High School won the Relays last year and went on to take the dual-meet championship with a 7-0 record. That trend also prevailed in previous years, said meet director Barry Amsden, coach at Terra Linda High.

All events will be held on a relay basis, with each school entering a four-man team, except in the pole vault, where three will compete. There will be no two-mile run. Distances in the hurdles have been changed to 70 yards per man in the highs and 120 yards per man in the lows.

Three girls events have been added this year — the 440 relay, the 880 relay and the distance medley relay.

Mt. Tam '5' Wins

Thad King scored 14 points yesterday as Mt. Tamalpais School of Ross defeated visiting Lick-Wilmerding of San Francisco, 51-48, in a Bay Counties League basketball game.

to do some catching if I'm needed."

Tenace said he wasn't crazy about catching since he now considers himself a first baseman.

"It's tough enough playing one position let alone two," added the man who hit 24 homers and drove in 84 runs last year, "but maybe in the long run it would help me to be able to play two positions."

Dark said he is counting on No. 1 catcher Ray Fosse working in around 150 games. If that's the plan then the A's more than likely will go with only one backup man—Tenace.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Successful Day For Two Anglers

"The other day I was down at Loch Lomond Harbor bailing out my boat when along came Harold Lansing and Col. Hugh Osborne. The colonel is retired; and Howard the Chevron man usually has all of his gas sold out at his station in two hours these days, so both have some fishing time on their hands. Of course, they asked me to go fishing with them.

Neither of them had caught a fish for a month, and I haven't caught a fish in my last eight trips out, so I figured for us losers it was a waste of time. I took a rain check. In about an hour or so I was in a position near McNear's brickyard to see their boat from shore. I put the binoculars on them and almost instantly, I saw the colonel set his rod. Fish on! Then it was Harold's turn! Gad, they were landing 20-pound bass hand over fist! In a short time, they hauled in the anchor and headed in.

THOSE TWO HIT the dock with six stripers, the largest going 21 pounds. They had taken along nine mudsuckers for bait, using just seven for the six whoppers. Two of the fish were even tagged. All of the fish were unspawned males. Talk about being in the right place at the right time! And me, just sitting up there out of it all.

Well, I felt bad until I talked to Bill Violet at the Loch Lomond Coffee Shop. He tells me that he had some surgery recently and has been ordered by his doctor to take it easy — and no fishing. So Bill, just to get some action, took a boat ride with Mrs. Ken Martin. They were going to take some movie shots of Martin netting shrimp from his shrimp boat. Everything went fine — a nice quiet pastime, when along came a friend holding up two stripers. The friend gave Mrs. Martin one of the fish. Bill decided to clean the fish on the spot, and then rinsed his hands off and shook them over the side.

WHAT HAPPENED then? His ring, loaded with diamonds, slipped off his finger and fell into the bay. It's value was $4,500. It was lost eastward about half way between The Sisters and the Bird Cage in about 30 feet of water in the ship channel.

Bill figures he has passed his excitement test with the doctor; after that, "just fishing" should be a cinch. But if you should catch a striper or a sturgeon, you might just check the stomach contents. Fish have been known to swallow bright objects. Now wouldn't that be a gas?

NEARLY 1,000 more pronghorn antelope make their home on California's northeastern plains today than were found in the Great Basin country two years ago, the Department of Fish and Game reported.

The Fish and Game's aerial census, conducted each year while the antelope are bunched in large winter herds, produced a count of 4,747, up nearly 400 from last year's record total.

Figures form the winter census and a similar summer survey help Fish and Game keep tabs on the speedy, eagle-eyed antelope and provide a basis for recommendations which have led to a limited special hunt each year since 1964.

THE FIRST SHIPMENT of 1974 California sport fishing regulations booklets has reached Department of Fish and Game offices and license agents throughout the state.

New regulations outlined in the booklet will take effect today, and will remain in effect through Feb. 28, 1975.

Johnston Says He's No Miracle Man

By GORDON SAKAMOTO

OAKLAND (UPI) — When Marshall Johnston took over as coach of the down-trodden California Golden Seals three weeks ago, he promised no miracles.

There haven't been any and there probably won't be a sudden, upward surge in the National Hockey League standings for the last place Seals. But, with Johnston as the leader, there is a definite difference in the play of the team.

"No, we haven't looked good so far," the 32-year-old former defenseman said recently. "My main objective right now is to establish a game plan. But I don't want it to get too sophisticated."

Johnston, who had no previous coaching background, was handed the job three weeks ago when Fred Glover resigned shortly after the NHL purchased the Seals' franchise from Charles O. Finley.

"The guys have been playing a lot more aggressively than ever before," Johnston continued. "Everybody has been contributing -talking on the bench, in the dressing room and patting back. We're pulling together a lot more."

"Marshall will be a good influence on us," said one of the players. "He knows the game, how it should be played and goes over everything beforehand."

"The atmosphere around here has changed," said another. "The team is showing a new desire and determination and we have the confidence to keep going even after we're down. I think we're just tired of the monotony of losing and don't want it to keep dragging us down."

New King For St. Vincent's Tourney Crown

The fourth annual St. Vincent High School Invitational Basketball Tournament will have its fourth different champion this year.

The defending champion and host Mustangs made sure of that last night, as they dropped their opening game, 51-48, to Potter Valley.

St. Vincent will play again tonight at 6 o'clock in a consolation match with South Fork.

In other tournament games last night, Geyserville beat Concordia, 63-58, California School for the Deaf (Berkeley) fell to Cloverdale, 61-42, and Point Arena edged South Fork, 52-50.

For St. Vincent, the loss was a case of poor free throw shooting — something which has plagued them all year.

In the final quarter both teams made four baskets, but Potter Valley converted four of five shots from the line. Meanwhile, the Mustangs could make just one of five attempts.

Down most of the game, the Mustangs rallied late in the third quarter to catch Potter Valley at 39-39. They went out to a 42-39 lead quickly in the fourth quarter. But the Bearcats answered with six straight points to go back out on top by three.

With 50 seconds remaining, the Mustangs were down, 49-46, but had possession of the ball. Norm McCoy stole the inbounds pass, though, and was fouled. He made two free throws to ice the win for the Bearcats.

After-School Sports Program At King School

An after-school sports program for children and adults at Martin Luther King School has been approved by the Sausalito School District trustees.

Outdoor sports for children will be offered from 3 to 6 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, according to Supt. Donald W. Johnson. In rainy weather, the school gymnasium will be open.

The gym will be open to adults for indoor sports, such as basketball and volleyball, from 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Cost of the program is not to exceed $500, trustees decided Monday. It is expected to begin in three weeks, after a part-time recreation leader is hired, Johnson said.

Reports Differ On Wayward Wilt

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — Conflicting reports are making the whereabouts of Wilt Chamberlain somewhat of a mystery, though nobody connected with the San Diego Conquistadors seems to be very much concerned.

Some people say pro basketball's greatest scorer and rebounder-turned coach is ill, others say he's off scouting and still others insist he's on some personal business. The only clear fact is that Chamberlain has missed the Conquistadors last two games.

San Diego is scheduled to play New York tonight. Perhaps he should stay away longer since the Q's won both games he's missed.

"I understand he told Leonard Bloom (the Conquistador owner) he's ill," said a spokesman for the American Basketball Association. "But nobody seems to know where he is."

Tennis

BARCELONA, Spain — Sweden's teenage tennis sensation Bjorn Borg yesterday beat Australian veteran Rod Laver 6-1, 6-1 and advanced to the quarter-finals of a $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament.

LA COSTA, Calif. — Stan Smith yesterday topped injured Brian Fairlie of New Zealand 6-2, 7-6 in the second round of a $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament

MIAMI — Fourth-seeded Tom Gorman yesterday turned back seventh-seeded Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 6-1, 6-2 to advance to the semifinals of a $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament.

CHICAGO — Sausalito's Rosemary Casals whipped San Diego's Valerie Ziengenfuss, 6-1, 6-4, last night in quarter-final action of the $50,000 Virginia Slims Tournament.

Bowling

MIAMI — Larry Laub of San Francisco yesterday won six of eight match games and boosted his lead in the Professional Bowlers Association's $80,000 tournament to 236 pins.

Football

PHILADELPHIA — Former pro football star Johnny Sample is scheduled for a Federal Court hearing today on charges he violated his parole on charges of cashing stolen government checks.

Sample, 36, a former player with the Baltimore Colts and New York Jets, was ordered jailed late Wednesday by U.S. District judge Daniel H. Huyett. The judge's order came after a hearing in which a government attorney charged that Sample began "fencing" more stolen U.S. Treasury checks shortly after his probation started.

LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles Rams' coach Chuck Knox, who directed the National Football League club to a conference title last year, was given a new five-year contract yesterday by owner Carroll Rosenbloom. Pact terms were not disclosed.

Plan Would End Tags On Market Items

BOSTON (UPI) — Large supermarket chains across the country are mounting a drive for consumer support of a new pricing system which eventually will eliminate individual price tags from market items.

The drive has included demonstrations of the new technique sponsored by the National Association of Food Chains, based in Washington, D.C.

The association, which represents 250 large chains, recently footed the bill for a number of consumer representatives to view the new system in Raleigh, N.C. Also attending, but paying her own way, was President Nixon's consumer adviser Virginia Knauer.

The new pricing system will leave supermarket shoppers facing prices marked only on the shelves, not on the products themselves. Some Massachusetts consumer groups are now planning a series of boycotts to block the new program.

Barbara McBridge, a spokeswoman for the food chain group, confirmed that consumer groups were flown to Raleigh. She said she didn't want "to give the impression it was a junket or anything. We just wanted to allay the fears of these consumer groups," she said.

Under the new system, which so far has been used on a trial basis in the Northeast and Midwest, all products are marked with a graphic design rather than a price.

When the shopper gets to the checkout stand, the design is passed in front of a scanner connected to a computer. The computer automatically feeds out the pre-set price for the item and the cost is printed on a slip given to the consumer.

The system allows the market owners to change prices simply by adjusting the computer, instead of remarking each item. Store owners say the shoppers will still have the shelf price tag to check, but some consumer groups remain leery.

"If they do change the price," said the Rev. Robert MacEwen of the Massachusetts Association of Consumers, "you won't know about it till you're on the way out the door."

"Often times," he said, "the items are not exactly where the price tag is... and then what?"

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

British actor David Niven was born March 1, 1910.

On this day in history:

In 1781, the American colonies adopted the Articles of Confederation, paving the way for a Federal Union.

In 1803, Ohio became the 17th state of the Union.

In 1932, famed flyer Charles Lindbergh's 20-month-old son was kidnaped. The boy's body was found on May 12, and Bruno Hauptmann was electrocuted for the kidnap-murder in 1936.

A thought for the day: American writer Henry Thoreau said: "It is characteristic of wisdom not to do desperate things."

Opening lead — ♠ 2

West led the deuce of spades, and dummy's jack won. The declarer, an English newspaperman, came to the conclusion that West had opened a singleton trump. He therefore continued with the ten of trumps from dummy.

East discarded, and South looked dismayed as he put up the ace of spades. West followed with a low trump and spouted a little stream of Polish.

"Little proverb," he explained, as declarer looked puzzled.

"I'll bet I can translate it," the dummy said bitterly. "When both sides lead the same suit, little mother, one side is crazy."

"Is perfect," West exclaimed. "You must have Polish blood."

Everybody enjoyed it but South. When South lost a heart finesse, West drew a third round of trumps with the king.

South struggled for a couple of minutes but finally lost a second heart trick in addition to the king of spades and the ace of clubs. Down one.

There was nothing crazy about the opening trump lead. West wanted to reduce dummy's ruffing power and thus protect his heart tricks.

South was crazy when he continued trumps. His correct play is to take the ace of hearts and give up a heart. He can later ruff a heart in dummy, return to his hand with the ace of trumps and ruff his last heart with dummy's remaining trump.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Recovery Seen For Lafayette

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Do you see any recovery ahead for Lafayette Radio Electronics (ASE)? We have 2,000 shares for which we paid $17 per share. H.S.

A. Lafayette was a highly regarded junior growth stock, which failed to live up to expectations. A break in stride as of the December 1972 quarterly results prompted a sharp sell-off in share price as institutional support disappeared. In the three ensuing quarters progress in both sales and earnings was resumed, although at a slower growth rate than previously had been achieved. However, until sponsorship returns to the shares, performance will probably continue to be sluggish.

Lafayette is a financially sound company with a particularly strong balance sheet, good return on equity and only $1 million in long-term debt. At the present time, the shares are trading at less than half of book value, and only 4 times conservatively estimated fiscal 1974 results. Greater promotion of its stereo products, with lesser emphasis on the quadraphonic equipment which had been heavily advertised, has improved the rate of sales gains. Gradual recovery should be apparent over a 12 to 18-month period as the growth rate resumes its former zest.

Q. In late 1968 we bought Security Equity Fund. We are reaching retirement age and are not satisfied with this investment. What would you suggest?—K.B.

A. Although one of the top 10 performers over the decade ending 1973, this fund's record has been well below average since 1969. Security Investment, under the same management, has a more stable record in recent years. This fund yields 6.5 per cent currently from its balanced bond and stock portfolio. In addition, 20 cents per share was distributed in 1973 from security profits. Exchange of your shares for this fund is suggested.

Prices Are Lower In Moderate Trade

New and possibly adverse developments for the oil industry combined to drive those issues sharply lower, and most other investment groups were off fractionally.

Brokers said some selling among the oils was generated by fear that, if the Labor Party forms the new British government, North Sea oil and gas interests will be nationalized.

Among companies with North Sea interests, Phillips was off 3 ⅛ Continental Oil was off 1 ⅛, and British Petroleum ⅞.

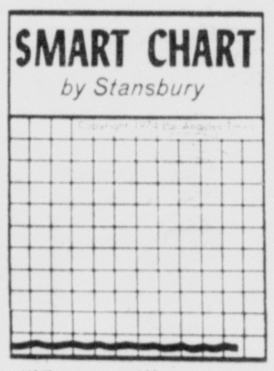
Prices also were lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.



"No one will ever accuse us of being an ITT."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $5.42 per fine ounce, down 21 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $5.42, down 21 cents and fabricated silver at $5.472, down 21.2 cents.

The Magpie Antique Shop Now Open In Corte Madera Location

The Magpie, another antique shop, opened today in Corte Madera at 305 Montecito Drive, the former site of Trifles and Treasures shop, which moved around the corner to its new location in January.

Owner Elan Mutrux of Tiburon said The Magpie will feature endangered antiques and artifacts such as horn chairs and 1920 floor lamps, and a variety of other antiques including wicker. The store is open Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Miss Mutrux owned an antique gallery in Gaslight Square in St. Louis, Mo., for about 10 years, then traveled in Europe for about five years before coming to Tiburon five years ago. Her sister-in-law, Maggie Mutrux, owns antique shops called The Magpie in Palm Beach, Fla., and in Long Island, N.Y.

THE CHAIR PLACE at 703 Fourth Street in San Rafael will move to larger quarters at Union and Gough Streets in San Francisco by May 1.

Owner Karel Langer, who opened The Chair Place two years ago at Fourth and Tamalpais, said the only reason he is moving from San Rafael is because he needs more space but could not find a suitable location here. His new location, at 1694 Union Street, will give him about three times the present space. It is now occupied by Roger Barber's antique shop, which will be moved and consolidated with Barber's other antique shop in Larkspur, at 242 Magnolia Avenue, where he specializes in Oriental antiques.

Langer said his Chair Place is now conducting a moving-out sale, which will continue through April.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

You Might Be Entitled To Child, Dependent Care Costs

You can claim child and dependent care expenses if you maintain a household for any of the following: a dependent under age 15; a dependent who is physically or mentally disabled; or your disabled spouse. A married couple must file a joint return and if your adjusted gross income is over $18,000, the deudction must be reduced by 50 cents for each dollarover $18,000.

There are various items of income which, if they are received by the dependent, or your spouse, will reduce the amount of your deduction.

Child care expenses and employment related expenses are those for household services and expenses for the care of the dependent which are solely to enable you to be gainfully employed. Employment related expenses are deductible only if they are for services in your household.

If the expenses are child care expenses only, they may be claimed for services outside the household, such as day care center, nursery school, etc.

The maximum monthly deduction for expenses outside the household is $200 for one child, $300 for two children and $400 for three or more children.

In no event can the aggregate deduction for expenses inside and outside the home exceed $400 per month.

If you believe you may have child care or employment related expenses for a dependent, get Form 2441 from IRS and complete every item on the form.

If may be confusing, but it will bring you out at the correct answer.

RODNEY SHERAN
New police chief

BART Aide Takes Kansas Police Post

Sheran resigned as supervisor of the police services division of Bay Area Rapid Transit this week to take the law enforcement job in Hiawatha, Kan., a farming community of 5,000.

He said it is "pretty exciting" to be returning to the town in which he was reared. "It's going to be interesting to start in a city I'm familiar with and I'm looking forward to getting my kids (two small sons) into a country atmosphere," Sheran said.

He will head a six-man department augmented by nine auxiliary policemen. The department has just moved into a new building, which also houses the local sheriff's department and highway patrol.

Sheran, 31, joined the Mill Valley Police Department as a patrolman in 1964, then became a Marin County seriff's deputy in 1966.

In 1967 he returned to Mill Valley as a juvenile officer and was named a sergeant in Corte Madera in 1970, a job he left in 1972 to go to work for BART.

He was born in San Rafael. His great-grandfather, Harvey Klyce, was one of he founders of Mill Valley. His father, Hammond Sheran, lives in Mill Valley.

Sheran's family moved to Kansas when he was 9 years old and he remained there until returning to California in 1961.

Sheran's wife, Carole, is a dispatcher for Mill Valley police. The couple and their two sons, Ronnie and Randy, now live in Rohnert Park, having moved there from Fairfax last year.

The family will move to Kansas later this month.
